Nelson shoots himself

By Don Staruk

James Nelson, the man suspected of killing an Andover postman on Andover Street last Thursday, was found dead in his car in northern Maine, at about 2 p.m. Tuesday, apparently from a self-inflicted gun shot to the head, according to Andover police.

Some feel relieved after Nelson found

"Everybody here is relieved."

That was the feeling at the Andover post office Wednesday morning, according to Louis Pimpare, assistant postmaster.

Workers had just learned that James Nelson, the man suspected of killing mail carrier David Bradner, had been found dead in his car in northern Maine.

Property values down $300 M Tax classification vote this week

By Don Staruk

Andover's property valuation dropped $300 million this year, from $3.1 to $2.8 billion, about a 10 percent reduction, according to figures published by the assessor's office this week.

A classification hearing to set the tax rate is scheduled for Monday night, Nov. 18, at 7:30, in town offices.

Property valuations were published this week and are in the assessor's office for viewing by the public.

Residential property and commercial retail property values dropped roughly 10 percent, while industrial values took a 15-20 percent dive, according to William J. Krajewski, assessor.

New growth is also down again this year.

In 1988, new construction added $3.6 million to the town's tax levy. This year the

AHS play modified

Little Foxes offended African-Americans

By Lisa Boudreau

When the curtain goes up on The Little Foxes tomorrow at Andover High School, the audience will see a modified version of the original play written by Lillian Hellman in 1939.

Both minority and non-minority students at AHS protested the play, which was written and set in the deep South during the turn of the century. The word "nigger" is used throughout the play and it contains derogatory stereotypes of blacks as servants.

Alison Haughton and Eureka Franklin, two AHS students from the A Better Chance program, and cast member Doug Gordon, son of the Andover family that acts as host to Ms. Franklin, were offended by the play's language and its stereotyping of minorities in subservient roles. ABC is a program that pro-

Carla Byers recruits minorities for Elderhostel

By Lisa Boudreau

Carla Byers, 28, of Kathleen Drive, recently graduated from law school, but she's in no hurry to enter the legal profession. The 1981 Andover High School graduate has committed her time to recruiting more minorities for a national and international program that sponsors low-cost college courses for senior citizens.

She is the associate director of marketing and outreach for Elderhostel, a non-profit organization that offers inexpensive, short-term academic programs at colleges and universities for people 60 and older. Hostellers can choose programs in every U.S. state and Canadian province and 45 countries around the world. The programs vary from classes in woodcarving and art appreciation to Gorbachev and the new Russia and life in the old South.

"My job is to get more minorities involved in the program. For the most part, people, both black and white, don't know about Elderhostel," said Ms. Byers.

Carla Byers recruits . . .

who works out of the Elderhostel Massachusetts headquarters in Boston.

Many of the people Ms. Byers tries to get involved in the program have spent their adult lives raising children and have never thought about attending college classes. Earlier this year she flew to Louisville, Ky., to speak to a group of 50 retired black women.

Many minorities, especially blacks, according to Ms. Byers, have a difficult time picturing themselves in a classroom on a college campus. Most of the Elderhostelers grew up when blacks and other minorities weren't allowed to attend the white-only institutions.

"Once these people get into the classrooms they find that their ethnic and religious differences really do melt away and they are all just Hostellers enjoying learning for the joy of it," she said.

Ms. Byers may not be earning the same income she might if she were practicing law, but her job has its advantages.

"I love what I'm doing. I get to travel all over the country and I'm my own boss and scheduler, so I can organize my trips and speaking engagements with some time left over for sightseeing," she said.

Carla Byers, associate director of marketing and outreach at Elderhostel

Flexibility allowed Ms. Byers to schedule her trip to Louisville at the same time in May as the Kentucky Derby. She began her job almost a year ago and since that time she has traveled to Seattle, Denver, Atlanta, Nashville, St. Paul and Philadelphia.

"I'm really committed to this program. Right now the legal field is saturated, especially the criminal law field, which is what I specialized in.

"Right now I'm living at home and I've been able to keep my expenses down so I'll be able to afford to stay with the program for a while, which is what I want," she said.

Working with senior citizens has given Ms. Byers a different perspective on aging. One woman who attended the program had worked all her life earning a living to put six children through college. All six had gone on to earn advanced degrees and with the program, this woman was able to earn a diploma too. Every hosteler receives a diploma after completing the program.

"That woman was so proud to get her diploma. It gave her a real sense of self-worth and a feeling of accomplishment," she said.

Elderhostel is for seekers, not sitters, Ms. Byers said. The average cost to attend a six-day program in the United States or Canada is between $285 and $320. Transportation to the college is not provided but room, meals and classroom supplies are.

Room usually means double occupancy in a college dormitory with a shared bathroom down the hall. When programs are held at community colleges, Elderhostel rents hotel or motel rooms. Elderhostel keeps the price down by forgoing amenities such as maid service and prepared meals.

The programs usually begin on a Sunday afternoon and end the following Saturday morning. There are three academic courses that meet once each day for 1 1/2 hours each and many extracurricular activities.

The overseas programs vary in cost and run between three and six weeks. An Elderhostel program in Great Britain costs $1,314 and includes airfare. A program in Israel costs $2,726, which also includes airfare.

Some of the classes offered this year in Massachusetts include studying the history of New England at Sturbridge Village, cross country skiing at a number of locations and a look at the history of the whaling industry and the evolution of the Green Peace movement on Cape Cod.

There is even an Outward Bound-style program at Elderhostel for more physically active seniors. The energy level the participants have is an inspiration to Ms. Byers.

"When I see how active these people are I realize I'm looking forward to growing old. It's encouraging to know there are programs like this available for me when I reach that age," she said.

The Andover Health Department has scheduled an additional influenza immunization clinic for those who were not able to get the shot at the Oct. 31 clinic. The clinic will be held Tuesday, Nov. 19, 1-3 p.m. at the Andover Senior Center, Whittier Court.

The vaccination is indicated for those over 55 and/or people with certain chronic conditions or diseases.

Flu shots are free and no pre-registration is required. Medicare eligible recipients must provide their Medicare number if they have one.

Pneumonia immunizations will also be available at this clinic. There will be a $5 for this shot, which is Medicare refundable. An appointment is necessary for the pneumonia shot. Call 470-3800, Ext. 255, for an appointment.

We want your baby photos

Calling all parents. The Townsmen wants to borrow photos of your babies!

The paper is publishing a special section, Baby, Jan. 9, and will run photos of babies: cute ones, beautiful ones, babies with pets, babies with parents, just babies! Please share your baby photos with us.

The paper will need the photos by Dec. 31. Make sure to include the name of the baby, the baby's parents, the baby's age, a phone number in case we have questions, and an address.

Don't worry about your photos: They will be returned.

Bone marrow drive to be held

An additional bone marrow drive has been organized by the National Marrow Donor Program for the benefit of 2-year-old leukemia victim Paul Kober of North Andover.

The event will be held in conjunction with the Feaster Five Road Race in Andover.

The drive will take place from 8 a.m. until noon inside the Doherty Middle School building on Bartlet Street on race day, Thanksgiving.

The testing, to be done by the Dana Farber Cancer Institute, consists of a short medical history interview and drawing of two tablespoons of blood.

Organizers hope to draw at least 500 people. Runners in the race and spectators are being asked to participate. Testing is open to all runners and spectators and taxes approximately 15 minutes to half an hour.

Veterans Day services were held Monday at Spring Grove Cemetery during cold and wet weather. Several people gathered to remember those who died in service to the country. Veterans Day commemorates the 1918 armistice of World War I. It also commemorates the armistice of World War II, the Korean War, Vietnam, and the Gulf War in Saudi Arabia.

Sunday, 2,000 people showed up in Georgetown to donate blood in the search for a perfect bone marrow match. Organizer Sharon Petrillo of Methuen said they expected 500 to show up. About 500 volunteers had to be turned away because organizers ran out of vials.

For more information on the bone marrow drive to be held in Andover contact Charlie Kennedy at 960-3900.

Paul Kober needs a bone marrow transplant to live.

Fidelity House seeks runners' support

Fidelity House, a private, non-profit organization that provides supervised homes and support services for people with mental retardation in the Greater Lawrence area, is encouraging those running in the Feaster Five Road race in Andover on Thanksgiving Day to collect pledges for the organization.

T-shirts will be given to all runners who collect pledges totaling $25 or more.

Fidelity House is asking runners to collect sponsors to pay per mile for the run.

The organization has a house on Bartlet Street, next to the new home of the Andover Townsman.

For information or to obtain pledge sheets, contact Fidelity House at 685-9471.

Ben Osgood: 'I didn't say that'

By Don Staruk

The Townsmen wishes to clarify a story that began on page 1 in the Oct. 31 paper, "Planner O'Brien: Bylaws need to be reworked," about the town's special permit process and three recent special permit applications.

In discussion of the three recent applications, on page 4, Stephen Colyer, planning director, said Ben Osgood, owner of the former bowling alley building on Park Street, said he would appeal the special permits if they were approved.

"That is categorically not true," Mr. Osgood said when he phoned the paper last week. "I have not talked to Steve Colyer since before the public hearings."

Mr. Osgood, of North Andover, said he never told Mr. Colyer he would appeal any of those decisions, not before or after the hearings. In fact, Mr. Osgood said, he stood up at at least one of those hearings and stated that he was not in opposition to the proposals, he said.

Mr. Colyer said again this week that Mr. Osgood told him once, in the Department of Community Planning offices, that he would appeal the special permit decisions if they were approved.

Mr. Colyer said Mr. Osgood told the same thing to at least two other staff members on separate occasions. Mr. Osgood denies it.

TOWNTALK

Jennifer Roman, 19, N. Main St., entered the Miss Merrimack Valley contest last weekend with the hope of getting closer to her goal of being crowned Miss America.

Although the 1990 graduate of Andover High School didn't win or place as a runner-up in the pageant, she said she left the pageant with more self-respect than she thought she would.

"Just knowing that I could get up in front of all those people and dance and speak in public made me feel I got something out of the pageant," said Ms. Roman, who is a second-year student at Northern Essex Community College.

Ms. Roman, who is the daughter of Sheila Roman of Andover, performed a hip-hop dance for the talent portion of the competition.

The pageant was held at the North Andover Middle School and 10 area women competed for the title and the chance to compete for the Miss Massachusetts title. Aimee Garrett of North Andover won the Miss Merrimack Valley crown.

Pat Hutson, the single mother featured in a story in the Townsmen on Oct. 31, "Hurting in Andover," has found a job.

Ms. Hutson called the Townsmen Wednesday, Nov. 6, to say she'd been hired full time as an administrative secretary at New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham.

"I start on Monday," Ms. Hutson said last week.

She thanked the several residents who had offered her help.

"I've had several people call me and want to help out," she said. "I want to thank them."

Ms. Hutson was busy last week looking for day care for her 22-month-old daughter, Emily, so Ms. Hutson could start work Monday.

Karen Giangrande, 28, of 49 Lupine Road, was the first female finisher in the Race Against Cancer at Phillips Academy this past Sunday.

Ms. Giangrande finished the five-mile course in 34 minutes and 11 seconds, but said that wasn't as good as she would have liked to do.

"I've been running a little better than that so I'm a little disappointed," she said this week.

Ms. Giangrande, a four-year resident of Andover, started running about seven years ago but has only been competing for the last year or so. She hopes to improve her time in the upcoming Feaster Five Road Race on Thanksgiving in downtown Andover.

"I'm hoping to do like 32:45," she said.

Ms. Giangrande is a product manager at Webster Industries in Peabody, and focuses on producing bags from recycled products. She lives with her husband, David.

If you're looking for some good hors d'oeuvres, you might try state Rep. Gary Coon's, R-Andover, fundraiser, Thursday, Nov. 21, from 6:30-8:30 at the Lanam Club. And you'll be in good company: Gov. William Weld will be the special guest of Rep. Coon.

Tickets are $150 per person. Call 475-3555 if you're interested.

Gail Seeley of Sheridan Road shared some good news with us this week. Her daughter, illustrator Laura Seeley, was named 1990 Georgia Author of the Year in children's literature for her book, The Book of Shadowboxes.

The Andover High School graduate, who also is the daughter of the late Clinton Seeley, is working on another book, The Magical Moonballs, which is "going to be wonderful," according to her mother. The book, which is similar to Shadowboxes, will be out next fall.

Gail Seeley said her daughter, who lives in Georgia, was last here in the fall for the New England Book Association gathering.

Mold problem displaces students, teachers

West Elementary deals with continuing, nagging smell of mold

By Lisa Boudreau

Students and teachers at West Elementary School were displaced from their classrooms Tuesday and Wednesday this week because of odors from a mold problem in the school's basement and ventilation system.

Health Director Everett Penney, who inspected the building Tuesday, said the odors were a result of decaying mold that had been treated with copper sulfate and represented no health hazard.

"(Copper sulfate) is not volatile and it's not released into the air. The odors that people at West Elementary are smelling are coming from the chemical doing its job. The air ducts in the area suck up the decaying mold and unfortunately circulate them up to the A Pod area," Mr. Penny said, referring to a section of the school.

Several students and one teacher complained of discomfort

"There is no evidence of a health hazard, but we are going by the smell right now."

Health Director Everett Penney

and nausea on Tuesday and were sent home. Students in classrooms near the treated area were moved into the school's auditorium, which continued to be used Wednesday at Townsmans presstime.

West Elementary Principal Jack Coyle sent a letter home with students Tuesday, apprising parents of the mold problem and the efforts being made to correct it and distance students from the odor.

According to Mr. Coyle, two students remained home on Wednesday as a direct result of the odors.

One parent, who contacted the Townsmans, but asked not to be identified, said she developed a headache on Tuesday when she went to the school to take her children home.

The mold and moisture is an ongoing problem at West Elementary, Mr. Coyle said. Ten days ago the town maintenance department treated a 20-square-foot section of the fungus with a chlorine solution, said Mr. Coyle.

"But within an hour it was apparent that solution would not be appropriate," Mr. Coyle said.

On Friday, Nov. 8, the area was treated with copper sulfate. Heavy rains and continuing humidity during the three-day Veterans Day weekend inhibited the copper sulfate's effectiveness, and by midmorning on Tuesday the odor from the decaying mold was enough to cause discomfort for some students and teachers.

The affected area continues to be ventilated with opened windows and fans, said Mr. Coyle. The administration hired a private air quality consultant to test the area, but had not begun the testing as of Wednesday at noon, he said.

"There is no evidence of a health hazard, but we are going by the smell right now. Until an air-quality test can determine that the levels of mold are down and the odor is down to zero, I suggested that the area not be used," Mr. Penney said.

According to Mr. Coyle, the smell was "almost gone" by Wednesday at noon. He said school officials hope to return A Pod students back into their classrooms on Thursday.

The Little Foxes modified for AHS production

vides secondary education in suburban communities for talented inner-city minorities.

"I was really bothered that the word nigger was used throughout the play. Plus, too, no black person tried out for the role of the two servants. When I heard that white students may be made up with black face I was very upset," said Ms. Franklin.

"I felt it was a mockery and went against everything (minorities) have been fighting for. It perpetuates stereotypes that are damaging," she said.

When the students raised their concerns to the administration they learned that Bob Lague, the music and drama teacher who is directing the play, had never planned to use the word nigger in the AHS production. They were told he planned to replace it with "colored."

"I realized that some of the words in the play were in pretty bad taste and we planned from the beginning not to use them," Mr. Lague said.

Mr. Lague said he chose the play because he believes it is one of the most challenging and is considered in drama circles as a "classic." He also chose it because the caliber of the cast he has this year would be up to the challenge.

Five AHS drama students attended the invitation-only New England Theater Conference auditions last weekend where they made up 10 percent of the entire participants.

"The choice of the play was made solely on its merit as a classic and that it would challenge such a talented cast as the one assembled this year," he said.

Mr. Lague said he was considering making up the faces of the two white students who were chosen to play the black servants. He said at first he wasn't aware that it would be looked at in a way other than make up.

The ABC students spoke to their adult board of directors who advised them to discuss their concerns directly with the high school administration.

"(The board's) role is really one of an advocate for the ABC students, not just with academics but also with social issues," said Bill Webber, 186 Chestnut St., president of the ABC advisory board.

"We felt they should try and work it out on their own with the people involved and go through the process by themselves and we'd help them with guidance if they needed it," he said.

Mr. Webber said he was personally concerned because the ABC students were upset and because the play, as originally written, would send a negative message to the community.

"I don't like to see anyone stereotyped. There is no question that people are prejudiced and there's no need to feed on that," Mr. Webber said.

AHS Principal Timothy Thomas called the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People when the ABC students first expressed their dissatisfaction with the play.

"Their advice was not to make any heavy-handed decisions, but to listen to the facts and involve the students in the decision-making process. I was glad to hear that because that's what I wanted to do from the start," he said.

Mr. Thomas then set up a meeting for the ABC students, their resident director, Brian Spriggs, Mr. Lague and members of the play's cast.

"I was concerned because we had a group of students at the school that felt there were some problems with how the play was going to be put on," Mr. Thomas said.

Ms. Franklin and Ms. Haughton both said they were satisfied with the meeting and its results.

"Everything worked out well," said Ms. Haughton.

"I felt that the administration and the people involved in the play listened to what we had to say."

Ms. Franklin described the meeting as a "round-table-type" discussion.

"I was happy that they listened to our con-

195 laid off from Raytheon Co.'s Andover plant

By Lisa Boudreau

Almost 200 employees at Raytheon Co.'s Andover plant lost their jobs Friday, Nov. 1. A total of 495 Raytheon employees were cut from six plants in Massachusetts and one in New Hampshire.

There are 5,700 employees at the Andover plant, which manufactures the Patriot missile. The Patriot received wide-spread acclaim during the Persian Gulf War. One reason for the layoffs, besides cost cutting, is that accelerated production of the Patriot during the war caused some of the work contracted by the U.S. government to be done ahead of schedule, according to Ed Powers, Raytheon's head of operations and employment.

International orders for the Patriot have been lower than anticipated. But, Mr. Powers said, Raytheon is confident more orders will be forthcoming.

Saudi Arabia placed an order for eight Patriot air defense systems in 1990 and has expressed interest in ordering more, according to Larry McCracken, manager of media relations.

The November cuts were made in the missile system and microwave power tube divisions of the seven Raytheon locations. Seniority, past performance and future needed skill were factors in deciding who was let go, said Mr. Powers.

Both union and non-union personnel were let go. Cuts were made across the board and included engineers to clerical support staff.

Laid-off workers will be given severance pay and offered outplacement services to help them find another job.

The roles of the servants in the play will be dealt with in a "color neutral" way, said Mr. Lague. No reference will be made to their skin color. They will just be servants, he said.

Chris and Stephanie Deady, new owners of Valentine Flowers on Elm Street, are greeted by former owner, Judy Kehrig, who will stay on through the transition period and then move to Florida.

Valentine Flowers changes hands

Chris and Stephanie Deady, owners of Ginny's women's clothing store on Essex Street, have purchased Valentine Flowers at 1 Elm St., which has been in existence for more than 20 years. They will hold an open house Thursday through Saturday, Nov. 21-23, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

"We are excited about another new business venture in Andover center," said the Deadys, who both are graduates of Merrimack College with degrees in marketing and international business.

Bill and Judy Kehrig have owned Valentine Flowers for four years. According to the Deadys, the Kehrigs have successfully built a professional staff of sales clerks, designers and drivers. In addition, the Deadys said the Kehrigs have improved their store with renovations, development of corporate accounts, wedding and funeral services and traditional arrangements with fresh-cut flowers.

The Deadys say they intend to continue a commitment to quality and personal service and they plan to expand their corporate services.

They say it may be unusual for a husband and wife team to run a business, but they add it is equally uncommon for each to be only 24 years old and newly wed.

"There will be a smooth transfer of ownership without inconveniencing the customer," the Deadys promise.

"The development of our new business will be based on the customers' wants and needs," said Chris Deady, who will run the business. Stephanie Deady will continue to run Ginny's.

The Deadys say they welcome and encourage suggestions from customers.

Holiday orders can be placed during the open house or by calling 475-2929.

Branch Manager Nancy Hargreaves will host the event.

Two join forces to enhance St. John's services

St. John's Hospital of Lowell and Choate Health Management Inc. of Woburn have begun a collaborative relationship to enhance St. John's psychiatric/chemical dependency emergency services. This program will strengthen St. John's on-site psychiatric emergency and triage services by combining the efforts of the St. John's emergency department staff and the clinical and psychiatric expertise of the Choate staff.

"We are delighted to have the opportunity to work with Choate Health Management Systems Inc., because like St. John's Hospital, Choate believes that those who need psychiatric and chemical dependency care should get the best treatment possible," said president and CEO of St. John's Hospital, Dr. Daniel J. O'Connor. "The objective of the program is to help patients who need psychiatric or chemical dependency counseling. Our program will allow patients to begin recovery immediately."

"We're extremely excited about working with St. John's and have been immensely impressed by the staff. Their emergency department is very busy but they always take time to understand what the patient needs. We're a good match," said Stuart Koman, Ph.D., president of Choate Health Management, Inc.

St. John's Hospital has been nationally recognized for its psychiatric services through the Teen Health Services. In 1988, the Teen Health Services won an American Medical Association award citing the program as a model of a comprehensive mental health program offering children and teens psychiatric and medical services.

The uniqueness of this program, now expanded to the St. John's emergency department, enables children, teens and adults to be treated medically and receive psychological/chemical dependency evaluations at the same time. In addition, children and teens who now utilize the St. John's emergency service will immediately be assessed and referred to the pediatric counseling service or Teen Health Service.

Dr. Gerald H. Margolis, psychiatrist for pediatric counseling, said, "St. John's program, now expanded into the emergency department, is quite unique for a community-based hospital. We take a family systems approach with our programs. The child or teen may be the actual patient, but we treat the family as part of the process and we have been very successful doing this for over 10 years."

who require either psychiatric, substance abuse rehabilitation or both come into the St. John's emergency department, they will see the St. John's emergency room physician and the Choate clinician. After the initial assessment, the St. John's physician and the Choate psychiatrist will develop a treatment plan for the individual patient. The recommendation for care will then be discussed with the patient and the patient's family.

Two members of the Choate Health Management, Inc. staff are working with the St. John's staff on a full time basis. Terri Hubbard, clinical coordinator of emergency services, was formerly with the Solomon Mental Health Center in Lowell. Ann Capoccia, director of emergency services for St. John's Hospital, has 20 years experience in program development, particularly in the mental health delivery systems area.

St. John's Hospital is a multi-service, 41-bed facility. The non-profit Catholic hospital was founded in 1867 and is governed by a board of trustees and has an affiliation with the Sisters of St. Martha.

Choate Health Management, Inc. and Choate Health Systems, Inc. were established from the basis of the Caulfield Center of Woburn known since 1974 for its innovative treatment systems for psychiatric and substance abuse and behavioral medicine service.

For more information on the St. John's emergency psychiatric services or for a presentation describing the program, call St. John's Hospital at 934-8287.

5.375% 8.30%
First Year A.P.R.

With New Heritage Bank's adjustable rate mortgage plan, the first year's interest is 5.375% (8.30% A.P.R.), and the rate can be locked for 60 days. The rate cannot go up more than 2% per year or 6% total over the life of the mortgage. Available for financing up to $191,250, this program is designed for single family homes. It is ideally suited for new home mortgages or refinancing an existing mortgage.

And to make this rate even more attractive, New Heritage Bank is using the lowest possible qualifying rate in developing your mortgage. This means, for example, that a family with a household income of $35,000 with a $100,000 mortgage and a 20% down payment would have a monthly principal and interest payment of just $560.

New Heritage Bank wants to help people with home financing. Call Joseph Mottola or stop by the bank today.

Book Week opens at library

In celebration of Children's Book Week author Jackie French Koller will speak at Memorial Hall Library Saturday, Nov. 16, at 11 a.m.

Ms. Koller is the author of Impy for Always and Nothing to Fear. She will describe how she started writing books for children and explain how a book goes from an idea to the finished product.

This program is especially for children in grades three through six.

The Friends of Memorial Hall Library will hold its second annual Children's Book Sale during Children's Book Week.

The sale will be held Thursday, Nov. 14, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Tapes, puzzles and games will also be available.

Young people's theater take on teen issues

Faith Lutheran Church will sponsor a night designed to promote dialogue between teen-agers and their parents on difficult topics facing teens today Sunday, Nov. 24, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The program will be an interactive evening of theater and dialogue, presented by the Manchester Youth Theater. The evening will be facilitated by Laura Burbine, coordinator of community education for Health Options in Manchester, N.H.

The Manchester Youth Theater will address some of the tough issues facing today's teen-agers, many of which are difficult for teens to discuss with their parents. Examples of what may be presented include drugs, alcohol, AIDS, sex, date rape, homosexuality and peer pressure.

The evening is open to the public. Teens are especially invited to bring their friends and parents. The program will be designed for people in either a middle school or high school program.

"The intent is to open up the topic between teens and parents in a non-confrontational setting, which may make it easier for people to discuss these issues in the future," Ms. Burbine said.

If there is sufficient interest, a follow-up discussion group may be formed to further address these issues.

Faith Lutheran is sponsoring the program as a community service, "to help address some of the issues that cause people hurt in our communities," according to Betty Long, chairwoman of the church's social ministry committee. The church is located at 360 S. Main St.

Parents and students interested in learning about the various foreign-exchange programs offered through AFS are encouraged to attend.

Through the Americans Abroad program, students from Andover can go to different countries all over the world for the summer or for a school year.

Besides the traditional family home-stay program, AFS now offers programs in language study, cultural studies, outdoor skills education and others.

This year, Andover welcomed back Amanda Witman from Finland, Jeff Johnson from Ecuador and Layne Whitley from New Zealand.

Some of these students and their parents will be on hand to answer questions.

The Americans Abroad chairwoman, Nancy Risseuw, says AFS is dedicated to achieving world peace through student exchanges.

Lay-A-Way Now
For Christmas

Scientist David Wood, left, gets help from fourth-grade student Bonnie Miner and teacher Doug Buchanan in demonstrating the concept of lift with a blow dryer and pingpong ball.

Bancroft takes flight

Fourth-grade students at Bancroft Elementary School took part in a "Science for Kids" program on flight that was sponsored by the school's Parent-Teacher Organization.

David Wood, a scientist and former educator from Boston's Museum of Science, presented large- and small-group workshops.

The lessons examined such concepts as lift, gravity, thrust and drag. The secrets of balloons, planes and rockets were revealed and compared.

The students then designed, built and flew their own paper aircraft.

Bancroft fourth-grader Fair McLaren shows her version of a paper airplane to classmate Kaitlin Watson.

Celebrating a recycled holiday season

The Creative Resource Center in Lawrence is celebrating the holidays by sharing ideas.

Students and teachers can bring samples to share, copy patterns and ideas displayed and gather materials for gifts at $5 a bag.

Plastics, Styrofoam, paper, fabrics, wood, and non-toxic products that industries would ordinarily pay to dispose of will be offered to anyone who cares to choose from the piles of supplies.

Because these materials have no specific use, they spark the imaginations of children and teachers alike, said Jack Fascione, who organizes the center.

The Resource Center will be open Tuesdays and Thursdays from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.

People who visit can register to win a $25 savings bond until Dec. 20.

The center, which opened in April, is a collaborative effort of the Institute for Self Active Education, Essex County Association for the Education of the Young Child and Lawrence public schools.

It has provided class projects and props for school plays.

The Resource Center is a cooperative relationship between the business sector, schools, day-care centers and other community organizations, Mr. Fascione explained.

The Creative Resource Center is a non-profit venture supported by local grants and gifts. Businesses that would like to make a donation of materials or teachers who have questions should contact Mr. Fascione at the center at 686-7816.

The Creative Resource Center is located at 439 Haverhill St. in Lawrence.

Schools conduct screenings

The Andover school system offers free screening for children 3 and 4 years old to assess whether a child might have a significant special need and require services before he or she starts school.

This screening, required by Chapter 766 - the special-needs law - is held on the last Friday of each month at Shawsheen School. Parents or guardians will meet with school personnel to review the child's health and developmental history. Brief screenings in language, motor development, vision and hearing help to determine whether a more comprehensive assessment would be beneficial.

Parents or guardians who feel their child might have a developmental lag or a special need should call Shawsheen School at 470-1700, Ext. 201, to make an appointment.

South School PTO to meet

South Elementary School's Parent-Teacher Organization will meet Wednesday, Nov. 20, at 7:30 p.m.

Boy Scouts collect canned goods

More than 1,800 members of the North Essex Council of the Boy Scouts of America joined 5 million Scouts nationwide Saturday, traveling door to door to collect food goods for the hungry and homeless.

The effort is part of the Boy Scouts National Good Turn "Scouting for Food" program, one of the nation's largest volunteer-supported food donation and collection programs to fight hunger in the United States.

Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Explorers throughout the Merrimack Valley kicked off the non-perishable food-gathering campaign by dropping off collection bags at each household. Next Saturday, Nov. 16, Scouts will collect the filled bags and transport the items to food banks for local distribution.

According to William Skoglund, general manager of the Andover Marriott Hotel and chairman of the 1991 Scouting for Food campaign, the effort is in response to the staggering number of individuals in this country who suffer from hunger each year. "Studies reveal more than 20 million Americans, including 5.5 million children go hungry at some time every month," Mr. Skoglund explained.

"A national tragedy has developed as more people go hungry in America today than at any time in the last 25 years."

According to a national study, between 1983 and 1985, the average number of households seeking emergency food increased by almost 40 percent. Seventy percent of those seeking help were families with children.

Prolonged hunger can have a devastating impact on health, particularly for children and the elderly, making them more susceptible to illness and infection, Mr. Skoglund said. Malnutrition can lead to permanent tissue damage and can have an impact on overall development, especially in children, he said.

The Scouts are looking for non-perishable foods high in nutritional content, such as peanut butter, baby formula, complete packaged meals and canned goods like tuna, chunky soups, stews, meats, fruits and vegetables.

Food collected by the North Essex Council Boy Scouts will be transported to U.S. Naval Reserve Centers where it will be sorted.

Living proof that some of the biggest steps made by medicine are the smallest ones.

In a medical emergency, there's no question where the Froilan family will turn for help. Though other hospitals are the same distance away, New England Memorial holds a special place in their hearts. When Mr. Froilan required an emergency appendectomy, when son Roger, Jr., required emergency stitches, New England Memorial provided swift, skilled care. So when the tip of 3-year-old Lisa's toe was severed as a door closed on it, they knew exactly where to go.

What they didn't know, however, was how much specialized care Lisa's injury would require—above and beyond the stitches so often viewed as standard emergency room fare. To save Lisa's toe, New England Memorial emergency room specialists promptly recognized the need for plastic surgery and were able to respond because of a unique on-call arrangement that provides 24-hour-a-day plastic surgery coverage.

Today, Lisa is an active little gymnast who is probably too young to remember what happened to her toe. But her family will never forget. Living proof that quality emergency care can make a very big difference in a little one's life.

For more information or a physicians directory, call us today at (617) 979-7117.

For a physician referral, call (617) 979-7005.

Once sorted, the food will be distributed by the Massachusetts National Guard to food banks serving the Greater Lawrence area, including Lazarus House, Neighbors in Need, Bread and Roses, St. Vincent DePaul Society and Day Break Shelter.

"Widespread hunger is completely preventable," said Robert Mersereau, council executive.

Corporate sponsors of the local Scouting for Food program include Marriott Hotels, Family Affair, Onyx Plumbing, Hewlett Packard, Lawrence Exchange Club, St. Vincent DePaul Society and Bay-Bank.

Last year North Essex Scouts collected more than 22,000 cans of food.

Nationally, the drive is expected to collect 87 to 89 million cans this year. Since the program began in 1988, Scouting for Food has resulted in the collection of 217 million cans of food.

For more information on the program, or to get a collection bag to fill, call 683-7169.

Phillips musicians perform rare compositions

An evening of chamber music and vocal works by the African-English composer Samuel Coleridge-Taylor will be presented by the music department of Phillips Academy Friday, Nov. 15, at 7 p.m. at Graves Hall.

Artists from the faculty will be joined by other musicians from the New England area to share the opportunity to perform rare compositions of Mr. Coleridge-Taylor.

Samuel Coleridge-Taylor was the son of an African doctor of medicine, a native of Sierra Leone, and an English mother.

His musical training included the study of violin and piano at an early age and training as a chorister in the churches of St. George and St. Magdelene's in Croydon, England. In 1890 he entered the Royal College of Music as a violinist, where he also studied composition with Charles Villiers Stanford.

Mr. Coleridge-Taylor is perhaps best known for his setting of the Henry Wadsworth Longfellow poem "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast." It is said that the composer was attracted to the poem by "the strangeness and euphony of the Indian names and words."

This composition is the first of a trilogy of works. The second and third parts are "The Death of Minnehaha" and "Hiawatha's Departure."

Mr. Coleridge-Taylor took a tour of the United States in 1904. He was brought to this country by a black music organization in Washington, D.C., the Samuel Coleridge-Taylor Choral Society, which was founded in 1901.

In November of that year, the society produced a Coleridge-Taylor Festival, its 200-voice choir singing the composer's choral works on two evenings in Washington and a third in Baltimore. The composer himself conducted the U.S. Marine Band.

Mr. Coleridge-Taylor and his music made a profound influence on the American public, and American music and culture made an equally profound impression on him, according to William Thomas, director of concerts at Phillips.

The works chosen for this concert are a series of his songs: A Vision, The Oasis, The Willow Song, I Shot an Arrow into the Air, Life and Death and Keep Those Eyes.

The first half of the concert will also include two excerpts from "Five Negro Melodies" taken from the composer's solo piano work Twenty-four Negro Melodies and transcribed by him for piano trio.

The concert will close with a performance of Quintet for clarinet and strings in f minor. This work, written in 1895, was performed by Joseph Joachim and his quartet in 1897 in Berlin. Mr. Joachim was a violinist, conductor, composer and colleague of Johannes Brahms, renowned for his interpretations of the solo violin and chamber music repertoires.

Here are the musicians who will perform the concert:

William Thomas: Chairman of the PA music department from 1975 to 1990, Mr. Thomas is both a conductor and cellist who performs frequently in the Boston area.

He is a member of the Essex Ensemble and director of concerts at Phillips, where he conducts the Academy Symphony and Chamber Orchestras.

Pamela Wood Ambush: Ms. Ambush's performances have included the Israeli premier of Steve Reich's Tehillim with Zubin Mehta and the Israel Philharmonic, as well as appearances with the New York Philharmonic.

Samuel Coleridge-Taylor is best known for his setting of Longfellow's poem "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast." The composer liked "the strangeness and euphony of the Indian names and words."

Gregory Jackson: Mr. Jackson has appeared as soloist in many operas and oratorios. He sings regularly at Hancock United Church of Christ in Lexington and is a program assistant at the Multi-Cultural Arts Center in Cambridge.

Collector shares her interest in 3-D books

By Sue O'Neill

For those who want to learn the workings of a camera, Andover's Elaine Schofield has a manual - in 3-D. Want to put your hands on the rigging of a sailboat without going to the seaside? Ms. Schofield has a book for that, too, and another that sets the scene for a small concert on a miniature stage festooned with tiny winking lights.

Ms. Schofield will demonstrate the potential of paper Sunday, Nov. 17, at 3 p.m. when she demonstrates pieces from her collection of pop-up books for "Tea at Three" at Andover Books and Prints.

Ms. Schofield has been collecting pop-up books, those volumes with curious unfolding three-dimensional pages usually found in the children's section of the bookstore, since 1989.

Since getting her first from a friend, she began to look for the books on her own.

Elaine Schofield

She watched for them at Memorial Hall Library, where she works as a librarian in the inter-library loan office, and stalked them in bookstores everywhere.

And she found them in the children's sections. She finds that somewhat amusing: "These are not for kids," she says. She opens the book Sailing Ships, displaying a fragile three-dimensional boat, complete with paper sails and string rigging, and runs her finger over the detailing. "These are really works of art."

Most of the volumes are modern. "The older ones are usually $50 and up," she explains. "I can't afford to buy them."

The newness of the collection does not stunt its variety, however. It includes the how-to camera manual and the Phantom of the Opera pop-up with lights and music. There is even - and she says this with a giggle - a pop-up edition of the Kama Sutra.

Pianist performs Mozart and more in library concert

Pianist Martha Sosman will present a concert Sunday, Nov. 17, at 3 p.m. at Memorial Hall Library.

Miss Sosman will perform Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's Sonata in F major K. 332, an assortment of short works by Johannes Brahms, Maurice Ravel's Valses nobles et sentimentales and Jeux d'eau and Frederic Chopin's Nocturne and Ballade in A flat major.

Miss Sosman graduated from Middlebury College where she studied piano. She has given recitals and performed in master classes at the Longy School of Music in Cambridge, where she studies with Alice Wilkinson. She has given recitals at the Reading Public Library, the Boston Federal Reserve Bank, Harvard University and Boston College.

This concert will be held in the library's second-floor hall. Admission is free, but donations will be accepted. Seating will begin at 2:30 p.m.

Andover health officer Dan Tremblay takes his program, Creating a Healthy Environment, to the 1930s at the Essex Agricultural Institute.

Using old black and white films and an interview with Alex Swiniarski, a farm horticulturalist, Mr. Tremblay returns to the days when farming was the main occupation in the country. He will show how studying soil and seed has allowed America to grow more food than it needs.

On the other end of the spectrum is what Americans do with all this food. An organization called CARE has led the way in feeding people around the world after the ravages of war and natural disasters.

In a program called In Our Time: America and the Fight Against Hunger, CARE recalls its post-World War II roots and examines current struggles to end world hunger.

Genealogist discusses family research methods

The North Andover Historical Society will present the third in its Forum Series on Wednesday, Nov. 20, at 7:30 p.m.

Richard M. Osgood will discuss methods for family research.

His lecture will be held in the second-floor hall of Old Center Hall, 3 Great Pond Road in North Andover.

During his years of studying the genealogy of his own family, Mr. Osgood has used original records and material remains to reconstruct house lots and land holdings in pre-Revolutionary Andover (present-day North Andover and Andover).

His research has taken him as far as England to trace the family's origins. The forum will provide the audience an opportunity to share research methods and sources.

A resident of Lexington and a retired U.S. Air Force colonel, Mr. Osgood is a descendant of John Osgood, one of the original proprietors of Andover, as well as the accused witch Mary Osgood of (North) Andover.

He will focus a section of his presentation on Mary Osgood's grandson, John Osgood, a tanner who helped found Concord, N.H.

Admission is free to members of the North Andover Historical Society and $1 for non-members.

Gardeners reap awards

Several members of the Andover Garden Club were recognized for their contributions in floral design and landscape history.

Treasurer Helga Frazzette was chairwoman of the standard flower show at the Topsfield Fair last month. The show was presented jointly by the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts and the Essex Agricultural Society. Ann Lange, former club president and international flower show and master judge, was in charge of selecting the 19 judges for the show from among judges qualified throughout the state by the federation.

Edith Joy King, current president of the Andover Garden Club, took a blue ribbon and a tricolor award for an arrangement she presented in Section A, Class 1, of the flower show. The class was called "A Time to Give Thanks," and entries were required to be mass arrangements suitable for use in a country church. Other design arrangers were Helga Frazzette, Dorothy Hill, Ann Lange, Lola Monks and Claire Syiek.

On the national front, Virginia Lopez Begg was mentioned in the November/December issue of the national magazine Fine Gardening for her role as membership chairwoman of the New England Garden History Society. In its October issue, another national magazine, American Horticulturist published an article Ms. Begg wrote about Mrs. Francis King, the most popular American garden writer of the 1920s and the founder of two major gardening organizations. Ms. Begg, who writes articles about the Andover Historical Society for the Townsmen, is a landscape historian with a special interest in the role of American women. She is currently working on a biography of Mrs. King.

The Andover Garden Club, in its 64th year of operation, encourages the cultivation of and interest in gardening, aids in the beautification of the town of Andover, helps protect and conserve natural resources and encourages the study of horticulture, landscape and flower design.

The club provides financial and volunteer support to a variety of municipal, educational and environmental organizations throughout the region.

The December dilemma

Interfaith couples learn how to cope

"December is the worst time of the year for us: We can't agree on how we want to celebrate, and our in-laws' expectations add to the pressure. Sometimes I wish we could skip the holidays."

Similar laments are heard from many Jewish/Christian couples as both Hanukkah and Christmas approach.

A workshop on "The December Dilemma" will look at the problems and potential solutions encountered by couples in interfaith marriages. Co-sponsored by the Interfaith Counseling Service of Andover and Jewish Family Services of Lawrence, the workshop will be held Sunday, Nov. 17, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Christ Church, 25 Central St.

Sharon Bauer and David Breakstone will facilitate the workshop, which will include responses by the Rev. Richard Gross, Catholic chaplain at Phillips Academy; Rev. James Diamond, rector of Christ Church; Rabbi Jonah Layman from Temple Beth El in Lowell; and Rabbi Robert Goldstein from Temple Emanuel in Andover.

Ms. Bauer and Mr. Breakstone have dealt with this dilemma in their own marriage of 23 years, in their counseling of interfaith couples and in other interfaith families with whom they have created alternative celebrations. They have been involved in ecumenical dialogue since 1965.

Mr. Breakstone is a writer and a teacher of communication at the Sloan School at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Ms. Bauer is a pastoral psychotherapist in private practice in Watertown.

Each has been active in their own congregation, he at Temple Emanuel of the Merrimack Valley in Lowell, she at University Lutheran Church in Cambridge. They have two sons, 16 and 10.

Although their own marriage is based on the model of a two-faith family with children being raised in both traditions, they will present other possible models as well. The couple will invite couples to consider decisions about Hanukkah and Christmas within the context of what holidays symbolized in their original families.

At the practical level, they will present how-to information about traditional and alternative celebrations.

"Healthy rituals are organic forms, always changing, but single-religion families may comfortably fall back into doing things the way they've always been done," Ms. Bauer said.

"One good thing about a mixed marriage is that it creates an opportunity for each partner to take responsibility for understanding their own tradition, and then together co-creating new forms authentic to their family and its needs."

The cost is $6 per couple and includes dessert. To register, call 683-6711 or 470-2250.

Property values here are down $300 million

Andover used to see the levy increase 8 percent, and it had the capacity to increase 12-14 percent, according to Mr. Krajleski.

New growth is what has kept most communities from feeling the impacts of Proposition 2 1/2, according to Mr. Krajleski. The drop in new growth, combined with cuts in state aid, is making it difficult for communities to deal with rising fixed costs for items such as health insurance, he said.

"Revenues are falling across the board," Mr. Krajleski said. "Put that in with the decrease in state aid and you start to see the problem."

Residential

Assessors tried to segment the market to deal with a range of decreases from 5-30 percent, according to Mr. Krajleski.

"We decreased all residential land by at least 10 percent and a maximum of 25 percent," he said.

The biggest drop in value was land. Lots valued at $80,000, $90,000 or $100,000 last year generally stayed about the same, but lots at $150,000-$160,000, especially in West Andover, dropped 25 percent.

Mr. Krajleski knew of a lot on Fairway Drive that sold for $285,000 in mid 1990. A similar lot on the same street sold for $140,000 early this year.

"So there was a big, big change in the value of land," Mr. Krajleski said. "It's the first time we're dealing with a market that's falling."

Condominium prices dropped the most, especially at Colonial Village on South Main Street. A large number of foreclosures knocked prices down from $125,000 to as low as $55,000, according to Mr. Krajleski.

Andover has about 900 condominiums, he said.

"Typically, their values are declining 15-20 percent," Mr. Krajleski said.

Condos are unique in that each complex is really a market unto itself, according to Mr. Krajleski.

In the case of Colonial Village, where many of the units were purchased as investments, the foreclosures control the market. When banks decide to dump a number of units at a low price, it establishes a low market value for the whole complex.

The same thing can happen in any market, though usually to a lesser degree, Mr. Krajleski said.

Commercial

The change in commercial and industrial property was a lot harder to deal with, according to the assessor.

Overall, C/I property values decreased about 15 percent, while the drop in value in the Interstate 93 corridor was closer to 20 percent, according to Mr. Krajleski.

Assessors tried to separate downtown commercial retail property from the industrial and office property in West Andover. Commercial retail property downtown dropped 10-11 percent typically, according to Mr. Krajleski.

"There wasn't a dramatic change, but there was some change," he said.

The office space in West Andover was a different story.

"New leases were being signed, but there was a dramatic downturn in the value of those leases," Mr. Krajleski said.

Large office spaces were leasing for $8-12 a square foot one year ago, he said.

"If you're able to get $8 a square foot that's very good right now," Mr. Krajleski said, many lease rates are much lower.

A 25-30 percent decrease in the value of the leases is average, and the vacancy rate has increased. Three of five buildings on one road are 100 percent vacant, the assessor said.

"Tenants in a lot of that space are not re-leasing, but just leaving, period," he said.

In 1988 and 1989, a five-acre lot sold for $1-1.5 million. Another sold for $500,000 an acre.

"Since early 1989, there has not been one land sale up there," Mr. Krajleski said.

Abatements

Whether the new valuations accurately reflect the market in property owners' eyes remains to be seen. The assessor is already dealing with approximately 100 applications for abatement from last year's reassessment.

"That's a phenomenal amount of appeals," Mr. Krajewski said.

Twenty abatement requests a year is more typical, he said.

Nobody complained when the assessments couldn't keep up with rising values. Then, a house valued at $200,000 was worth $300,000 by the time the ink was dry on the listings. But now when a value drops from $250,000 to $225,000, the abatement applications pile up.

"Calendar year 1990 was the biggest hit the town took," Mr. Krajewski said.

But Mr. Krajewski believes the market decline has slowed if not stabilized for the time being.

Still, the court cases should be a big concern to the community because of the costs for lawyers and the time it takes employees to prepare those cases, he said.

"It puts a lot of pressure on you to settle a case," Mr. Krajewski said.

Tax classification shift

Property in Andover last year was split about 69 percent residential and 31 percent C/I. Now the split is about 70/30.

If a single tax rate was set for all property, residential property owners would pay 70 percent of Andover's estimated $40,579,801 tax levy for fiscal 1992.

But Andover has for several years used tax classification to shift a greater share of the tax burden to the commercial industrial property owners.

Two years ago the shift was 115 percent, which meant C/I properties were taxed at 115 percent of their value. Last year the Board of Selectmen voted for a 120 percent shift.

At a 120 percent shift for C/I, residential owners paid just under 65 percent of the tax burden in 1990. That would be the same for this year if the shift remains at 120 percent.

Last year's tax rate was $11.42 per $1,000 for residential property, and $15.04 per $1,000 for C/I.

The estimated tax rates for fiscal 1992, if the 120 percent shift is maintained, would be $13.26 for residential and $17.37 for C/I.

A return to a 115 percent shift would make the rates $13.56 residential, and $16.65 C/I. An increase to 125 percent would make them $12.95 residential and $18.10 C/I.

Whether businesses will stand for the same or an even greater shift, or whether residents will absorb more of the tax burden, should be evident at next week's public hearing.

The tax classification hearing is scheduled for this Monday night at 7:30 p.m. in the town offices.

Figuring the levy limit

The levy limit for FY 1992 is $40,580,949, just $1,147 higher than the town's estimated levy.

Andover's levy increased from $39,056,017 last year, an increase of $1,523,784, or 3.9 percent.

The levy limit formula is: Fiscal 1991 levy limit ($39,076,598), plus 2.5 percent

The Townsmen selected a random sampling of commercial/industrial and residential properties from various parts of town to compare last year's values and taxes (FY1991) to this year's (FY1992) figures. The FY1992 tax, based on the estimated tax levy, is shown with the 120 percent shift (same as last year) and the two most likely changes should the selectmen vote to increase or decrease the classification shift, to 115 or 125 percent. Alleged killer dead

Houlihan said Wednesday morning. "It turned out to be Mr. Nelson."

The police said the car had been there at least since snow fell Sunday.

Mr. Nelson, 31, of 228 Andover St., allegedly gunned down Andover postman David Bradner, 32, of Lawrence, last Thursday afternoon, Nov. 7, as Mr. Bradner delivered mail to the Mansion House, the six-unit apartment house where the suspect lived.

Police now say Mr. Nelson laid in wait for Mr. Bradner in the building's foyer with a small gauge shotgun.

"We figured he was in the hallway under the stairwell. He shot him in the side first, then in the back of the head," Lt. Houlihan said.

Police received a call from a hysterical woman just before 1:30 Thursday afternoon reporting a shooting at 228 Andover St. Roberta Raphael told police she was in the shower in her third floor apartment when she heard the gunshots and called police.

Officers Henry Picard and Robert Cronin, the first officers on the scene, found Mr. Bradner face down in a pool of blood in the front foyer of the Mansion House.

The officers at first believed whoever shot Mr. Bradner was still in the building. They called for a second ambulance in anticipation of a shootout.

Then a neighbor told detectives the alleged gunman, Mr. Nelson, had fled in his yellow 1984 Subaru hatchback immediately after the shooting. He had a shotgun in his hands.

Mr. Nelson is thought to have used the same weapon to kill himself in the woods near Houlton, Maine, about 30 miles south of the state's eastern border with Canada.

"It's apparently a self inflicted gunshot wound to the head," Lt. Houlihan said.

The suspect's death ends a nearly week-long manhunt by state and local police, during which the United States Postal Service had offered a $25,000 reward to anyone supplying information that lead to his arrest.

"Basically this closes the investigation," Lt. Houlihan said.

All for $200-$500

Mr. Bradner, a self-employed handyman, allegedly owed Mr. Nelson between $200 and $500 for a bathroom remodeling job Mr. Nelson had done at Mr. Bradner's Lawrence home.

Mr. Nelson was arrested on Oct. 22 after he went to the Bradner home and allegedly attacked Mr. Bradner, then pulled a .38-caliber revolver to threaten him, in an effort to collect the money.

He was charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, threats to commit murder and possession of a gun without a license.

The revolver was confiscated by police because Mr. Bradner was unlicensed to carry it. He did not have a permit for any weapons, according to police.

While searching his apartment

This is the police mug shot of James Nelson, from the Oct. 22 arrest when Mr. Nelson went to David Bradner's Lawrence house to collect on a bill.

Thursday, police found a note Mr. Nelson had written about his dispute with Mr. Bradner. The note seemed to be written more to himself than to anyone else, according to Lt. Houlihan.

"Almost like keeping a log," he said.

Mr. Bradner was married and had two children. Mr. Nelson was single. Mr. Nelson's parents live in upstate New York.

Other murders in Andover

The last murder in Andover was 11 years ago when a man was shot in a barn at what was then Shattuck Farm, where the LeBifteque restaurant is now.

About 14 years ago, a man was killed in The Park after a dispute over a card game. He was dragged under a car and his assailant is still in jail for that crime.

A murder occurred on Aspen Circle 12 or 14 years ago, according to police, and the owner of the Texaco station on Route 125 was killed about 20 years ago.

Fund set up in victim's name

The National Association of Letter Carriers has set up a memorial fund in David Bradner's name.

"It's to help the family," said Rick Dicecca, an Andover postman.

Mr. Bradner, of Lawrence and a postman for five years in Andover, had a wife and two children.

The fund has been set up at the Andover Savings Bank.

for two months and was not available for comment. Mr. Mendoza was already in Puerto Rico when Mr. Bradner was murdered last Thursday.

Mr. Pimpare and other postal workers did not want to talk about the murder this week.

Some small relief at least will no doubt spread with the news that the suspected killer has been found. Andover was shocked by the murder last week and anxious to find the killer.

Stephanie Deady, owner of Ginny's women's clothing store on Essex Street, closed her store last Thursday night after the murder. She didn't feel comfortable having an employee in the store with the murderer still at large.

Bewildered neighbors gathered at the scene of the murder and talked about their mailman and the neighbor few of them knew.

Some described the alleged killer as a quiet man, a loner. The victim was "a nice fellow, always had a smile on his face."

Michael Frishman, a former School Committee member who moved into the house at 230 Andover St. in June, said the apartment building next door, called the Mansion House, had been "reasonably quiet."

Tami Bartels, a nanny living at 233 Andover St., who said she heard what may have been a gun shot at the time of the killing, just moved to Andover two months ago.

"Just from what I've seen, this is such a small town that not much goes on in. I'm from Iowa," she said.

Ms. Bartels had seen the postman often and felt bad for her neighbors who'd known the postman longer.

Andrew McIntyre, who lives with his parents across the street from The Mansion House, was a friend of Mr. Nelson's, according to neighbors. John McIntyre, his father, didn't want to talk about the shooting Thursday, but agreed with Ms. Bartels that the mailman was well known.

Glenna Outwin was at home with her three children at 4 High Vale Lane, across from the Mansion House, when the shooting occurred.

"We're really nervous," she said as investigators and reporters swarmed into the neighborhood. "We've never seen rifles in Andover."

Ms. Outwin said she was playing fire trucks and ambulances in the playroom with her two 3-year-olds when they heard the real sirens and the children ran to the window.

"My 8-year-old was watching because he was home sick from school," Ms. Outwin said. Her husband is School Committee chairman Christopher Outwin.

When a fire truck responding with medical aid pulled up in front of the building, she took the children out on the porch to watch, assuming it would be a false fire alarm. But she thought it odd that the fire truck stayed out in the street and didn't back into the driveway.

"My son kept saying, 'Something bad is going on,'" Ms. Outwin said.

When police cars pulled up and officers got out with rifles drawn, she hustled the children back inside.

Ms. Outwin said she did not know any of her neighbors who lived in the apartment building. The Mansion House is the only

The message is hurtful

While we believe Andover High School Principal Tim Thomas did a good job guiding students and adults through a potential crisis over the play, The Little Foxes, and while we are glad some revisions were made to the play, we have to say that the choice of the play in the first place was a bad one. In fact, it was a hurtful choice that should never have been made.

Bob Lague says this year's actors and actresses at the High School are the most talented he has seen. He said this is a difficult play and he wanted to challenge this group of talented students. We say that's fine, choose another complicated, difficult-to-play number, because there are hundreds of plays, many of them sophisticated and challenging.

The Little Foxes is full of the N-word, a word used in a bigoted way to describe black people. And even though Mr. Lague said he never intended to include the N-word in this production, it is peppered throughout the play and gives us a message of what kind of play this is.

In addition, when the cast of characters is listed in the beginning of Lillian Hellman's play, the first two to appear, black servants, have only first names. The implication is servants are not worthy of last names. Also, Mr. Lague originally intended to black servant-actor faces.

So already this is a play that is not complimentary to African Americans. It is a play that embarrasses us and reminds us of what this country used to tolerate. It is a play that is hurtful to a whole segment of people.

Some people argue that the play is history, that it accurately reflects the South in the 1930s. We say fine, leave the performance to some other group. Our job here is to teach drama, but it also is to make African Americans in Andover feel accepted, welcomed. This minority group says it feels uncomfortable in many instances here. Add another instance.

We want African Americans to know they add to the richness of this community and we value their presence. Producing The Little Foxes sends a hurtful and, we hope, inaccurate message.

Townsmen Editor Perry Colmore Catlin was the guest speaker at Bancroft Elementary School last week, when she and 100 fifth-graders and some parents and teachers talked about what goes into publishing a newspaper. The fifth-graders are in the planning stages of putting out their own newspaper, perhaps three times a year, and they are working on names for it, appropriate stories and learning how the work at a newspaper gets done.

Magic brings us a magic opportunity

By Perry Colmore Catlin

The Rev. Jim Diamond, rector of Christ Church on Central Street, said it well Sunday: Take the opportunity of basketball star Earvin Magic Johnson speaking out about being HIV positive to "speak directly to that issue" with your children.

And if you think your young children know nothing of AIDS, I know for a fact that you are wrong. I spent a lively 30 minutes at Bancroft School last Friday, talking with 100 fifth-graders about putting together a newspaper. That group is launching a paper this year and will publish it three or four times during the year.

One of my assignments was to talk with the students about stories that would be appropriate for their paper.

"What's the hottest topic around school right now?" I asked the group.

Two immediate answers: Magic Johnson and murder. The murder they wanted to discuss is that of the mail carrier in Andover. If you think children are only interested in TV and Ninja Turtles, that's not my experience. Very young children worry about disease, war, hatred, pollution, poverty and other heavy subjects. It's our job to address them with children, to help them find their voices and to understand their fears.

I always love talking with young children. They have so many good ideas and they're honest. I didn't tackle Magic and AIDS, that's not my job here, but it is the job of parents, and maybe even schools. But the basketball star's announcement is an opportunity for open discussion with our children.

I heard some excellent story ideas from the fifth-graders. I asked them what they like best in the Townsmen and I heard sports, sports and sports, and then a few other sections. One girl said she likes the entertainment section. A boy said he reads the police log.

We talked about possible stories for their paper and here are some of the suggestions: Magic Johnson, profiles of new teachers, an interview with the new principal, Debra Dunn, opinion polls, food stories, interviewing students about classes or teachers where or from whom they learn the most, and so on.

When Townsmen photographer Matthew Sapienza arrived, I lost my audience. All eyes were on him, smiling at him, waving to him. "This is Matthew Sapienza," I said. "His job is much more important than mine because people will read a photo before they'll read a story."

I'm looking forward to reading their paper.

If you haven't taken in the two current exhibits at the Addison Gallery at Phillips Academy, I recommend them. I spent a recent afternoon laughing with and studying Eadweard Muybridge's photographic studies of motion and sequence. It's fascinating and well displayed. Also on exhibit are June Leaf's large paintings and her sculpture. Many of her metal sculptures are small and detailed and about movement. I like them. Check it out.

Wishing the Magic news was a mistake

Editor, Townsmen:

It was one of those nights when the six o'clock news hits with the sudden icy chill of a New England Noreaster. There in a frozen, silent state of disbelief we watched. Magic Johnson has the AIDS virus.

We flip through the channels, from Mike on 5 to Lobel on 4 to John Dennis on 7 and back again. The news is the same. Magic Johnson has the AIDS virus. We wait for Jennings and Brokaw and Rather. Surely there's been a mistake. Ha Ha Ha, what's the punchline? But, the bulletin leads the national newscasts and the news is the same.

They all showed tape of the announcement from California. There at the Forum in Inglewood, the building that Magic called home for 12 years, was what could have been a scene from another Laker world championship. One of five that Magic brought to the franchise. Jerry West, the Lakers general manager, superstar from an era gone by was there. Commissioner David Stern, the often praised genius who manages the explosive growth of the NBA and basketball world-wide, was there. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar was there. The owner of the Lakers, Dr. Jerry Buss, was there too.

Magic sauntered up to the microphone, the star, the hero, confident, poised and cool. In a sharp, double breasted business suit with his tie in a perfect knot, Magic greeted the pack of international news media. He even had the trademark smile.

But something was wrong with the picture. The faces told you that. And with the Lakers' owner and GM and the commissioner and Kareem were two medical doctors. There would be no celebrations tonight.

Magic addressed the crowd and the world with the courage and dignity and determination that he played every game. He told us he has the AIDS virus and will retire from basketball immediately. The doors have closed on an era.

He is arguably the best player ever to pick up a basketball. The accomplishments, well, they speak for themselves. Five NBA world championships. Three MVPs. Twelve starting all-star appearances. An NCAA title. The all-time NBA record for assists. But the numbers don't tell the whole story. Because Magic (and his friend, Larry Bird) saved the sport of basketball while simultaneously re-inventing the game. In 1979 the NBA finals weren't on live network television. Most of the franchises were struggling financially, many were losing big money. Fan interest, what existed, was waning. But a 6-foot 9-inch point guard came along and passed and passed and passed. He scored and rebounded and stole and shot and won. And he smiled. He made the players around him better players and the people around him better people.

Magic the optimist, the competitor, the winner. His toughest battle is ahead of him. But in your heart you know that if someone can beat it Magic can. He emphasized life at the news conference. "I have the HIV virus not AIDS." He vowed to dedicate his time to raising money and educating America on AIDS. He is especially concerned about the children, to many of whom he is a hero. He will extol the virtues of "safe sex." And he assured us that he would still be involved with basketball, the Lakers and the NBA. Magic put his game face on to face the future.

Magic was the one the Lakers went to in the final seconds of the game. He was the leader, he was confident and he was strong. Today, when for perhaps the first time Magic needs our support, he sensed that we still needed him. He was once again the strong one, reassuring us and encouraging us. It was West who struggled with the tears, and it was Stern with the blank stare. It was us with disbelief. If it can happen to Magic Johnson, hero, it could happen to us.

But as Pat Riley reminds us, to eulogize Magic is wrong. For Magic is very much alive and presently very healthy and plans to be with us for a long time. Let us hope so. We need our heroes today more than ever before. And in a paradoxical sort of way, when he brings his enthusiasm and dedication to the AIDS fight, Magic will be an even bigger hero than ever.

Flu shot almost did him in

Editor, Townsmen:

My flu shot at the Doherty School last week did me almost as much harm as good. I caught a slight cold and raised a temporary fever. Let me start with the fever.

The line formed at the door and inched down a long ramp, people pretty well packed, two or three abreast. Only enough pushing, however, to make sure that nobody got ahead of those in front of them. On the other side of the railing a few 30-somethings were leaving, not having been processed but abandoning the struggle without a shot. Age brings superior patience, I thought, a little smugly.

Progress was slow, a couple of feet and halt, like moving toward an airline ticket counter. Mild annoyance began to mix with the patience as neighbors exchanged humorous comments edged with irony. We couldn't see beyond the heads at the end of the ramp; but as we neared it, we heard shouts of "Get a form! Get a form!" Some of us oldsters, used to looking ahead, asked, of no one in particular, "What form?" "Where?" "Give us one while we're waiting." No answer, as a noisy hubbub arose from below. Annoyance was giving way to irritation.

The ramp spilled into a heaving sea of humanity, crowded shoulder to shoulder, chest to back, in an area about 10 feet across. The pushing and shoving looked, and soon felt, like a mob trying to get into a football stadium just in time to see the kickoff - but with a difference.

The milling herd were not all pressing forward in the same direction, not funneling from the ramp into the narrow corridor leading to the flu shot room. People were pushing in every direction. Some were entering the melee from a side door, having cleverly avoided the long progress down the ramp; we resented them, the more because we hadn't thought of the trick. Others, returning from their flu shots, were coming back out of the corridor, bucking the tide and crying, "Let me out!" Their shouts mingled with the continual, "Get a form!" and both rose over, "Excuse me, excuse me" from the now indignant but still polite citizens of our enlightened suburb, who were being jostled and were jostling in return.

Countering these movements toward and away from the prized corridor were many who were fighting across the traffic, toward and away from the "forms" tables at either side, which were obscured by people pressed against them. Only balloons above them showed where they were. In addition, some of the less thoughtful young people holding clipboards tried to get the attention of harried people on the edges of the mob to sign a political petition. I began to understand, even empathize with, those who had given up the struggle and returned up the ramp.

Making my way toward a table, I reached over the heads of others and finally got my form, to be read and filled out then and there. It was almost completely covered with a closely printed message, with a strip at the bottom having blank spaces requiring information. What! Read, and understand, in that heaving mass? Forget it. I'll just fill out that bottom strip. Ah, not so simple. I try to write on the back of an obliging person in front of me, who couldn't keep from being buffeted this way and that. I manage to scribble my name, address, date of birth and age. (Why both date and age? Can't they figure or do they think I can't?) Pity the person who has to decipher my scratchings.

Alas! It calls for a Medicare number. We struggle to get at our cards. Women fish nervously through bags; men fumble with wallets extracted from pockets with difficulty. "Well then," someone says, "just your Social Security number" - if I can remember mine. Oh, forget it, my frazzled nerves urge. I shove my way back to the table. ("Excuse me, excuse me.") There the larger part of the form is torn off and discarded and my slip handed back, my passport to the promised land.

Newly resolute, I turned in the general direction of that corridor and re-entered the fray, adding my own efforts to those of the crowd. Its anger had become feverish, and I soon caught the fever. The polite-sounding "Excuse me" now came through clenched teeth. In the corridor at last, there was space and time for a clipboard holder, whose petition I signed. Finally, a bit lightmonic Orchestra entertained a full house Sunday in the chapel at Merrimack College. Conductor George Monseur was his usual enthusiastic self, especially when conducting the Concerto for Flute & Orchestra by Aram Khachaturian (1903-1978). This is a relatively modern piece and it's good to see the local orchestra tackling varied music. It also played Beethoven's Symphony No. 6, one of my favorites, which I thought Mr. Monseur took too slowly.

The orchestra has a Christmas concert, A Family Christmas, planned for Sunday, Dec. 8, at St. Joseph's Church in Amesbury, and it is full of Andover connections. Soprano Suzanne Dimmock plays a large part in the concert; Roxann Nickerson of Andover, who works as a physical therapist at the Professional Center Handicapped Children in Andover, is playing oboe in Concerto for Oboe and Strings by Domenico Cimarosa; and Holly Parker, a senior at Phillips Academy and a resident of Andover, is playing solo flute in Mozart's Concerto in G Major for Flute. I hope to make that concert.

Some of us from the Townsmen attended Andover Theatre Company's production of The Runner Stumbles, Friday night. Townsmen intern Diana Zipeto had a part in the play and although we admit to being prejudiced, we thought she was excellent.

We were entertained by the play. I decided the runner was Father Rivard, and that he was the messenger of God, the priest who stumbled in his message to his flock.

The Andover Theatre Company, like the Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Orchestra, takes on different and interesting productions, as well as traditional favorites. Keep it up!

headed, I arrived at the flu shot room, where I proffered my slip and was told to wait (again! but only for a few seconds) for an opening at one of the lines headed for the tables set up as check-out counters. There nurses worked proficiently under pressure, with a smile and a few words of banter. Mine furnished an excuse for the crush: this was, unexpectedly, the largest group ever - probably, I thought, because doctors, like mine, were no longer giving flu shots.

My cold? I wasn't such a provident oldster. It had been only drizzling when we left the house and when we arrived at the school, I took no raincoat. After driving around the entire parking area, I had to leave my car in a restricted space and run through the mild drizzle to the building. Emerging after the mind-deadening experience, I found heavier rain and got fairly wet returning to the car. Next year I'll carry a raincoat even if the sun is shining (and carry a cattle prod?). My cold developed the next day, but has disappeared.

When I got into my car, I looked at my watch. I had been in the building only a half hour. But the mind measures time by intensity, not by the clock. I knew that my experience had lasted much longer than 30 minutes. Nearly a week later, my fever and cold are gone. My sense of the ridiculous has clicked in: This was worth sharing with the Townsmen and with townspeople, especially those in charge of the operation.

P.S. Since writing this letter I have spoken with people who had no such trouble getting their flu shots but just walked through without a hitch. Our trouble was coming early to avoid the rush.

Talking about a 'hot' topic

Editor, Townsmen:

Hooray to the Andover Townsmen for allowing a forum of discussion on a "hot" topic. Andover's health director exhibited courage for his statements on life style and prevention of social disease. Such words would have been considered normal, acceptable, commonsense advice in the 1950s, but are now seen as bigoted and unfashionable in the 1990s. What has changed? Have we lost our awareness of physical laws? "If you do this (behavior), you may get that (disease)."

It has been proposed that the solution to the AIDS problem is to find a cure and to practice "safe sex." This does not attack the root cause of the problem. Let's consider this analogy: It is well established that smokers run a much higher risk of contracting lung cancer. The parallel solution would be to find a cure for cancer and smoke low-tar, low-nicotine filter cigarettes to reduce the risk. We, of course, go one step further and advise smokers to give up smoking and advise young people not to smoke, which gets at the root cause.

Why not get at a major root cause for the spread of AIDS among our young people by encouraging them to save sex for marriage, instead of handing them the equivalent of a low-tar, low-nicotine filter cigarette (a condom)?

The message of the '90s to our youth is going to have to be "saved sex works." Let's join together to warn our young students that this is the time to wait and save sex for marriage. Their life may depend on it. As a community we may disagree on the approach to this problem, but we can at least agree that strong messages should be given to young people which, if heeded, will maximize their chances for not becoming HIV positive.

Objects to list of teacher pay

Editor, Townsmen:

After reading Lisa Boudreau's column, "What are teachers paid?", I could understand any Andover teacher's frustration with the premise of the article.

For good reason the performance of teachers and school officials has been under tremendous scrutiny of late. Each of us has an interest in focusing attention and pressure on school officials to deliver the highest levels of education possible, with scarce resources.

Our interests are not served by learning how much our neighbor makes. If the purpose of this article was to inform potential teachers as to salary opportunities in the field of education, it could have done so without divulging individual salaries.

If I were a teacher I would be furious if my salary were published in the local town paper. Publishing salaries goes beyond "accountability" and serves only to titillate readers' curiosity. Perhaps Lisa Boudreau would like to photocopy her W-2 for Andover readership. It would have about the same value as her article.

Pays tribute to Coach Murnane

Editor, Townsmen:

I was recently saddened to find out that Andover High School hockey coach Mike Murnane had resigned his position. Due to a job promotion, Mr. Murnane had additional demands on his time and concluded that he would no longer be able to devote himself to the demands of coaching the team. He will certainly be missed.

I have had the pleasure of having two sons play for him during his three-year tenure as hockey coach. In that they both grew as hockey players seems only trivial compared to the fact that they both grew as young adults. A fond memory will always be from one of them who said the first week of practice, "Dad, I can't take this, Mr. Murnane is killing us" (i.e., tough, hard skating practices), to his reflection at the end of the hockey season, "Gee, I feel better about myself."

Adjectives like tough, hard, demanding, no-nonsense and dedicated come to mind when I think of Mike's coaching style. However, words like fair, equal, compassion and role-model would better describe him as a person. Mike never lost sight of the fact that these "boys" are on the verge of becoming young adults and not future NHL players.

I will miss not seeing Mike on the bench any longer, but if one of his former players needs him, they know how to find him; he will always be "there."

Returns to Andover, finds strangers

Editor, Townsmen:

Recently, I returned to Andover to attend a funeral at Spring Grove Cemetery and later spent a half hour reminiscence in the business section of the town. If I felt lonesome at the cemetery before, it was nothing compared to the feeling I had standing in the center of a town I had left 40 years ago, and not seeing a single person I knew.

Back in 1934, during the Depression, when I was a youngster of 19, I was transferred to Andover's Civilian Conservation Corps 110th Co. at the Harold Parker State Forest. I had hiked over the road from Fort Devens with only a bag over my shoulder. The first six months at the company we were occupied with building roads and constructing a dam.

Winning a public speaking contest at the Old Town Hall one night landed me a promotion to educational adviser and athletic director at the company. Writing press releases about our activities for the Andover Townsmen, owned then by Elmer Grover, put me in contact with people who offered me a job at Tyer Rubber. A year later, in 1935, at 21, I married an Andover girl. About this time, with World War II going, I had become president of Local 137 at Tyer Rubber and was serving a term on the Labor-Management War Manpower Commission through an appointment. Our jurisdiction covered Andover, North Andover, Methuen and Lawrence.

Standing there alone on Main Street just after attending the funeral on my recent visit, as I said, it seemed like an eternity since I had been the Andover correspondent for the old Lawrence Star, enjoyed the great people in West Andover as chaplain of their Grange, sponsored the article that put town meetings under the procedure of opening with a salute to the American flag and an invocation, helped organize an Andover unit of the Massachusetts State Guard and assisted in watching for aircraft at the American Legion's Warning Center during World War II.

I recalled the year of the big hurricane, when I had lost the Republican nomination for the State Legislature by 11 votes after spending only $67. It seemed centuries since I had worn a path into the Memorial Hall Library to put together a genealogy of my mother's family, the Grant family in America. It was at that period that I found that we were descended from Christopher Grant, the brother of Matthew who was Ulysses S. Grant's first ancestor to come to this country.

Upon learning that one of the Grants was a colonel at Bunker Hill, I had organized the largest chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution in New England with 60 of Andover's most prominent citizens members. Standing there on Main Street, I wondered if the people then knew that their "town activist" had moved away to take a position as a special education teacher with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts where I would serve with the Department of Mental Health for 28 years along with my wife. And during the course of my employment I would serve the public employees of Massachusetts as a vice president of their State Employees Union and John A. Volpe as a member of the Advisory Board on Comprehensive Health Planning for the Commonwealth.

Since taking an early retirement to Cape Cod in 1975 I have administered a fuel assistance program for the town of Yarmouth, been Legislative Chairman for Elder Services and the AARP, and up until recently, been on the board of the Council of Churches Service Center. Responding to the needs of the elderly in Yarmouth to enlarge their privately owned senior center, I helped direct the raising of funds and four years ago we moved into a million-dollar senior center, the largest on Cape Cod. The board of directors have appointed me manager. My wife and I have just celebrated our 57th wedding anniversary so have strong attachments to Andover. We would welcome hearing from any of our old friends any time. In writing this I just wanted to let the people of Andover know that I valued my early contacts with them and will never forget such a great town.

Higher salaries don't mean increased quality

Editor, Townsmen:

It is ironic that just as Business Week releases a special edition on the "Quality Imperative," Andoverans are continually presented with the outdated concept that education quality comes only through increased costs. When I ran a health care provider, I tried to change such attitudes by saying, "I'll raise my salary next week; will that increase the quality of our rehabilitation services?" The same can be said for Andover's education system; higher salaries do not equate to increased quality.

Quality in education needs to be planned and measured based on:

- Educational outcomes as measured by student academic performance and individual achievements;
- Exceeding or meeting defined teaching standards;
- Exceeding or meeting community defined goals for education.

Credentials and funding are important, but they are indirect, not direct, determinants of quality. And more "programs" does not mean that core subjects are taught any better.

Massachusetts is not 46th in education spending, nor is it third in per-capita income. When such figures are quoted, they need to be referenced. Insight recently reported these figures as 26th in education spending and eighth (and dropping) in per-capita income. What needs to be pointed out is that education infrastructure has been in existence for a longer time in Massachusetts.

Other parts of the country, such as Florida, Texas and California, had to build far more schools at inflated prices during the 1970s and 1980s.

I believe it is time the education quality debate was moved to a higher plane. Throwing money at problems does not create solutions. Education quality will be obtained when teachers and administrators understand their job as serving their customers (not just their superiors) and are accountable for performance and obtaining the greatest value out of funds expended.

... MORE KNOWLEDGE IN HIS LITTLE FINGER

Any experience of numbness in the ring finger and pinky may lead the chiropractor to suspect a condition known as "thoracic outlet syndrome." This suspicion may be increased by the knowledge that the numbness occurs at night, especially after the patient has engaged in daytime activities that require upraised arms and/or frequent head-turning. What separates this condition from others is its intermittent character and the overriding experience of numbness as opposed to pain. These symptoms are most likely caused by muscle swelling which serves to press on nerves when the patient's arms are held up and/or his or her neck is kept in a turned position. The road to recovery begins with a correct diagnosis of the problem, followed by corrective balancing of the upper body.

Many symptoms can result from work related activities or repetitive motions. If you suffer from an injury or have pain, please call DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. Chamber to meet on Workers' Comp Reform Bill

The Legislature's Committee on Commerce and Labor has reported a massive Workers' Comp Reform Bill. The Lawrence Chamber of Commerce is arranging a special meeting for the Greater Lawrence legislative delegation so it can hear people's experiences with workers' compensation and what they would like to see in any reform legislation.

The meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 18, from 7:30 to 9 a.m. at Heritage State Park Visitors' Center, Jackson Street, Lawrence.

Sen. Patricia McGovern, chairwoman of Ways & Means, Rep. Gary Coon, a member of the Commerce and Labor Committee, and Sen. James Jajuga have agreed to attend. The chamber has also invited Rep. Kevin Blanchette and Rep. Larry Giordano. Rep. Joseph Hermann, who has been supportive of business and industry, is recovering from surgery.

While the bill is more than 200 pages, a 19-page executive summary is being reviewed by Chamber committee members and will be commented on. Call the chamber office at 686-0900 for a copy.

Why you should consider a Home Equity Loan instead of a Home Equity Line.

The Difference.

First off, we're not knocking Home Equity Credit Lines. For many people, they're definitely the way to go. Other folks, however, may want to check into Home Equity Loans. The difference is simple. With an approved Home Equity Loan, you borrow a specific amount for a specific period... usually up to 10 years. You can also lock into a fixed interest rate. Right now we're offering a special introductory rate for the first 6 months and a really great fixed rate for the remainder of your loan.

With an approved Home Equity Line, your money is available when you want it. Just write a check for the amount you want. Your monthly payments may differ because you only pay a percentage of the amount drawn on your Line. Upon maturity, you may still have a balance outstanding.

The Advantages Of A Home Equity Loan.

With a Home Equity Loan, you get a fixed rate for a fixed term. That makes it easy to budget, because you'll always know what your monthly payment will be... and you'll know exactly when the loan will be paid off. In many cases, your Home Equity Loan interest is 100% tax deductible.

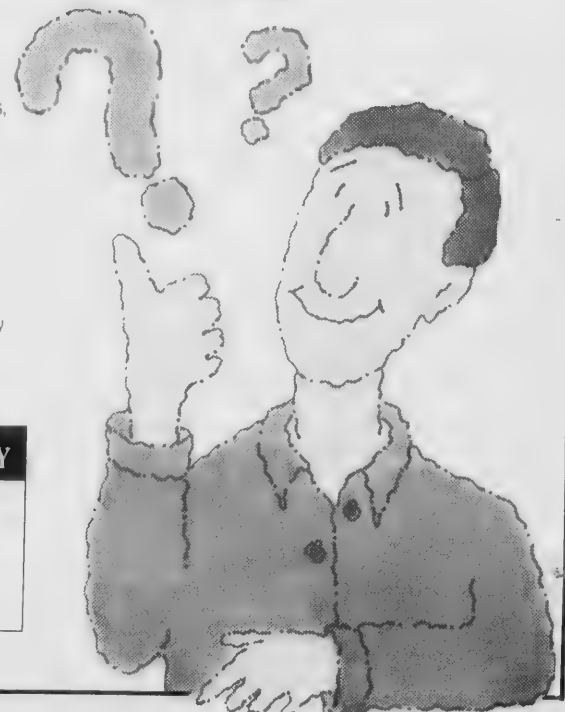

Think Of The Uses.

Pay off your existing credit line from another bank... education for your children... home improvements... a new car... debt consolidation (the interest on a Home Equity Loan is considerably lower than credit cards or personal loans)... a vacation... Whatever the reason you have for borrowing, a Lawrence Savings Bank Home Equity Loan may be the way to go.

Collins looks for 200th career win

W's shut out Billerica; onto undefeated Chelmsford

By Rick Harrison

Andover High head football Coach Dick Collins was grinning from ear to ear as he emerged from the locker room adjacent to Lovely Field last Friday night.

The sub-freezing temperature didn't seem to bother him, or his players as they scattered and either talked briefly with friends or headed for the main dressing quarters under the Dunn Gymnasium.

"If they can't score, they can't win," Collins said with a laugh, probably realizing he had stated the obvious and uttered one of the most time-worn clichés in athletics.

"You know, I'm a great coach," he continued, his listeners waiting for the punchline from this modest man. "I'm great because I hired this guy. One of the best moves I ever made."

Collins then grabbed the hand of "this guy," defensive coordinator Joe Iarrobino, and shook it firmly.

"Hey, coach, your offense wasn't too shabby either," answered Iarrobino.

In the warm glow of the immediate aftermath, it appeared the Warriors had played a near-perfect 40 minutes against a strong Billerica team.

The impressive 17-0 victory kept Andover tied atop the Merrimack Valley Conference with Chelmsford, a 31-0 winner over Wilmington, and both are undefeated heading into tomorrow night's monumental title showdown at the Lions' Alumni Field (7:15 p.m.).

It will be the biggest game since Thanksgiving Day of 1989, when a Super Bowl berth hung in the balance for the winner of the Andover-Central clash.

It is also perhaps the second most important contest since early December of 1975, when the Warriors squared off against Plymouth-Carver in the last of their three consecutive Super Bowl appearances.

An important sidelight to the Chelmsford game will be Collins' quest to become only the seventh coach in Massachusetts high school football history to win 200 games (Walpole legend John Lee became the sixth two weeks ago).

Ironically it will come against his closest friend in the coaching fraternity, Tom Caito, who scored his 200th last year and openly admits to idolizing Collins. Both men are originally from the Providence, R.I. area.

"I love Tom like a brother, but we'll forget that for a few hours next Friday night," noted Coach Collins.

Total domination

Last Friday's dismantling of Billerica was surprisingly thorough, AHS totally dominating a team that entered with five straight wins, a 6-1-0 overall record and the most potent offense in the MVC (158 points, 22.6 average).

Joe Iarrobino, defensive coordinator for the Warriors, was praised by Head Coach Dick Collins after the varsity football team defeated Billerica. The 17-0 win marked the fourth straight shutout for Coach Iarrobino's defensive unit.

It was the seventh consecutive victory this year and the 14th in a row since early last season.

It was also the fourth straight shutout for Coach Iarrobino's defensive unit, which has strung together 19 straight scoreless quarters since Dracut tallied early in the opening period five weeks ago.

Andover has not allowed more than one touchdown in any game, and has outscored its seven opponents by an incredible 169-18 margin.

Collins was hard-pressed to remember when he's had a stingier defensive crew, although just two years ago the Warriors were also extremely thrifty.

Shutout strings are nothing new to recent Warrior teams.

In '89 Andover followed an opening 19-6 loss to Chelmsford by blanking seven of its next eight foes, yielding only a single touchdown to Lowell in that stretch prior to the controversial 16-14 loss to Central Catholic on Thanksgiving. AHS permitted only 41 points all year.

Last fall the locals had three shutouts and surrendered only 20 points in the last five games.

Iarrobino, in his eighth season as an Andover assistant, has masterminded each of these superb defenses.

However, he would be the first to tell you nothing can be achieved without the 'horses.'

"The kids play extremely well together," said the Lynn native and Rollins College graduate. "They have a lot of pride, they all love to hit, and they're determined to keep the ball out of the end zone. You saw that tonight when they went all out to stop Billerica at the end of the game."

The Indians threatened the shutout streak just once, in the closing minutes, when they drove to the Andover two yard line.

Billerica had a first-and-goal at the Warriors' eight, but three big plays by Captain Ryan Kelly helped keep the Indians off the board.

Kelly and fellow linebacker Bob Dalton stopped quarterback Craig Flynn at the four yard line after a four-yard gain, Kelly corralled Shane Graham at the three as he gathered in a swing pass from Flynn, and then a Flynn toss to John Barbarossa fell incomplete in the end zone as time ran out.

The Warriors held the explosive Indians to just two first downs and 25 yards total offense in the first half.

Billerica finished the game with 114 yards, 72 passing and just 42 on the ground in 29 rushes.

Seventy-eight of those yards and five of the Indians' nine first downs came during the final drive, which started at the Billerica 20 and ended at the AHS two long after the issue was no longer in doubt.

Impressive game plan

The defensive game plan was impressive and carried out to perfection.

"We worked hard all week on ways to stop (sophomore Mike) Mastrullo and Graham," explained Coach Iarrobino. "Billerica is an excellent team, but it's also a big-play team. They've put up a lot of points on 99-yard touchdown passes and things like that."

"We felt we had the weapons to prevent the long strikes."

"We put (track sprinter) Jason McCue, who has outstanding speed, on Mastrullo man-to-man the entire

Andover hopes to end losing streak against Lions

By Rick Harrison

Chelmsford is the only football team in the Merrimack Valley Conference that has dominated Andover in recent years.

Tomorrow night at Alumni Field in Chelmsford (7:15 p.m.), the Golden Warriors will be playing for undisputed possession of first place in the league and to break a five-year losing streak against the Lions.

Andover has beaten Chelmsford just once in the last 10 years, 19-15 in 1985, while the Lions have won six times and the 1984 game ended in a 14-14 tie. The two teams did not play in 1982 or '83.

This is the first time since 1986 the rivals have not opened the season against one another. Chelmsford launched its last four campaigns with 14-2, 35-0, 19-6 and 16-12 victories.

Those losses put Andover in immediate holes as far as MVC title and Eastern Mass. Division 2 Super Bowl berths were concerned.

This year, however, the two teams with opposing coaches who are best friends and mutual admirers (Dick Collins and Tom Caito) will both enter undefeated with everything at stake.

Andover is 7-0-0, has won 14 straight and is working on shutout streaks of four games and 19 consecutive quarters. The Warriors have scored 169 points and yielded 18.

Chelmsford is 8-0-0, has shut out its last three opponents and has outpointed the opposition 162-71.

Tom Caito, coach of the Chelmsford Lions, will go head to head with friend and fellow coach Dick Collins tomorrow night. Both the Warriors and Lions are undefeated.

Jekyll and Hyde

Despite being unbeaten the Lions have alternated between superb and horrific play.

The Jekyll and Hyde club struggled to beat Methuen, 9-8, edged Lowell 9-7 on a field goal by Brian Veth with just 1:42 left to play, and watched a 38-7 laugh against Tewksbury turn into

Bill Cullen named varsity ice hockey coach for AHS

By Rick Harrison

Bill Cullen, long-time Andover resident and Wilmington High hockey coach, is the new varsity ice hockey coach at Andover High.

Cullen, 43, succeeds Mike Murnane who cited "additional business responsibilities" as the reason when he handed his resignation to Athletic Director James Hurley earlier this fall.

Hurley's recommendation of Cullen for the post was approved by the School Committee at last week's meeting, and the team is scheduled to begin practices when the winter season officially opens on the Monday following Thanksgiving (December 2).

The job was posted and reportedly came down to three candidates. The other two, varsity assistant Scott Seero and junior varsity Coach Ralph Quaglietta, are expected to remain with the program in the same capacity.

It had also been rumored that former Holy Cross and R.P.I. college coach Mike Addressa, who reportedly moved to Andover recently, had applied for the job. Hurley, however, indicated those rumors were unfounded.

Cullen, who resides on Olde Berry Road with his wife Joyce and 14-year-old son Chris, is the seventh coach in the 24-year history of Andover High hockey.

Charlie Vars, who took the team to Russia back in the late 60's, was the first coach and he was followed in turn by Richard Valle, Peter Anderson, Peter Grogan, Charles Donovan and Murnane.

Wealth of experience

Cullen brings with him a wealth of experience at the championships that winter (1973).

Parker and Cullen then matriculated to Methuen High, where they guided the Rangers' hockey program for four years.

Cullen was hired at Wilmington, where he followed Jay Tighe, Al Fessenden and Ken Palm, and over the past 14 years he brought the Wildcats to approximately 150 victories, 11 Eastern Mass. Division 2 Tournaments and two Merrimack Valley Conference Small School titles.

Wilmington reached the Division 2 final in 1983.

Coaching at one of the league's smallest schools, Cullen developed a reputation among his peers for getting the most out of his players. Wilmington hockey teams were noted for their toughness and defense, two traits that fit in well with Cullen's coaching philosophy.

"I believe you build teams from the goaltender out," said Cullen. "Defense wins hockey games."

At Andover High he inherits a program that has struggled through the years, partially because many of the better youth hockey players end up at private and Catholic schools.

The team has qualified for the tournament only six times, including last year when the Warriors dropped a well-played 4-2 first round decision to 1989-90 Division 2 champ Arlington Catholic.

The program started to turn somewhat several years ago when Peter Grogan made sure the youth travel teams entered several highly-competitive leagues in the Boston and southern New Hampshire areas.

"From the little I know about this year's (Andover High) personnel, I expect them to have a good attitude," said Cullen. "I see some of the kids around town all the time, and I know they're eager to get started."

One of Cullen's reasons for accepting the Andover job was his familiarity with the kids who pass through the youth program. His son Chris is currently on the Bantam A travel team.

"Living in Andover and coaching in Wilmington, it was getting tougher and tougher to coach against kids I see in my own neighborhood," noted Cullen, who has lived in town for 16 years. "The opportunity opened up and I decided to apply."

His wife is a teacher at West Elementary School.

high school level, having coached at four different Massachusetts schools over the past 23 years.

He is a native of Boston and graduate of Malden Catholic, where he played both forward and defense as a four-year letterman on the MC hockey team.

He majored in education at Boston State, spending 2-1/2 seasons as a defenseman on the hockey team, and he is currently a guidance counselor at Methuen High.

Cullen began his coaching career by returning to his alma mater, working as an assistant hockey and football coach at Malden Catholic for five years.

He then took the job as assistant hockey coach to former Merrimack College coach and athletic director Bruce Parker at Acton-Boxboro. The Colonials won the Eastern Mass. and State Division 2 game," said Iarrobino. "He intercepted the first pass they tried to throw, and was step-for-step with Mastrullo all night.

W's shut out Billerica; onto undefeated Chelmsford

"Inside we had backers Ryan Kelly and Bob Dalton keying on Graham when they came out in the single back formation, or ran tackle to tackle.

"And we contained the quarterback (Flynn) with some great play by our ends (Todd Allard, Jamie Himber, sophomore Toby Guzowski)."

In addition to those mentioned above, other defensive standouts included Alan Guibord, big tackle Erik Greenstein, Dan Waitkevitch, Jon Wilen, Colin Arsenault and Steve Shepard.

Allard and Waitkevitch combined for the game's only sack, and Greenstein made a triumphant return to the lineup after suffering a severe ankle sprain against Haverhill and sitting out the Wilmington game.

Billerica Coach Peter Flynn, who has turned that program around in just two years, had nothing but praise for Andover.

"This just proves why Coach Collins is one of the best in the state," said Flynn, a Woburn High graduate who played against Collins-coached Andover clubs in the early 1960's when both schools were members of the Northeastern Conference.

"I honestly didn't think any team could stop us. We've moved the ball against everyone else this season, including Central Catholic and some good pre-season scrimmage opponents (Woburn and Winchester).

"They did a fantastic job. They out-hustled us and controlled the line of scrimmage with their superior size and quickness.

"We were inconsistent and had too many penalties (five for 53 yards)," added Flynn.

The Warriors once again prospered despite their usual rash of penalties, this week totalling eight for 77 yards.

Guibord the workhorse

Workhorse back Alan Guibord surpassed 100 yards rushing for the fourth time this year, gaining 106 in 23 carries and scoring his ninth touchdown on a four-yard run to cap the Warriors' first series.

He now has team-high totals of 54 points and 629 yards.

Breakaway threat Steve Shepard was the epitome of efficiency, gaining 92 yards on just five carries including a brilliant 34-yard touchdown run on Andover's final possession with 5:29 to play in the game. Three of his runs were good for 34, 30 and 22 yards.

Senior quarterback Matt Daniels was a masterful engineer once again as he directed the attack to 18 first downs and 258 yards rushing.

He tossed in 12 yards rushing in three carries, and completed two of just four passes thrown for 10 yards each to Shepard and Colin Arsenault.

and his 14th and 15th conversions.

The three-pointer came with 48 seconds left in the first half, making it 10-0, and was drilled from 28 yards out off a difficult placement near the left hash mark.

Jason McCue added 47 yards rushing in 10 carries, including a 17-yard sprint to help set up the second touchdown.

"Matt (Daniels) has done a nice job for us all year. Everything we could have asked for," said Coach Collins. "And the way we've used Jason (McCue) to throw in key situations has kept opposing teams off balance.

"The emergence of Steve Shepard in recent weeks, and the running of Daniels and McCue, has enabled us to keep Guibord fresher."

Andover won the opening toss, deferred the kick-receive decision to Billerica, and then scored on its first series for the fourth time this season.

The Warriors moved 54 yards in nine plays, Shepard ripping off a snake-like 22-yard run and Guibord carrying six times for 33 yards.

Guibord skirted left end from four yards out on a third-and-goal play, Scott Henry booted the conversion, and it was 7-0 with 3:03 left in the first quarter.

Billerica made its deepest penetration of the first half moments later, reaching the Warriors' 31 before Jason McCue came up with his interception.

The teams traded punts before Andover drove from its own 25 to the Indians' 11 yard line in 13 time-consuming plays.

Daniels hit Shepard with a 10-yard pass, an interference call against Billerica on another Daniels-to-Shepard aerial brought the ball to midfield, and slashing runs by McCue (13 yards) and Guibord (16 yards) produce consecutive first downs.

Shepard ripped off eight yards before the drive bogged down, at which point Henry boomed his 28 yard field goal.

The half ended with a confusing play, Daniels blind-sided by Dana Cottrell and the Indians' Keith Gamble scooping up a loose ball and outracing Daniels 40 yards for what Billerica supporters thought was a touchdown.

However, under existing high school rules the defensive team cannot advance a fumble in that situation.

The second half opened with Andover marching from its own 20 to the Indians' one yard line in 14 plays.

Guibord carried seven times for 20 yards, Shepard rambled 30 yards around right end before being ridden out of bounds by Craig Flynn, and Daniels contributed a nine-yard run and 10-yard pass to Colin Arsenault.

Billerica produced a great goalline stand at this point, stopping Andover four times on first-and-goal from the two. Guibord carried three times and Daniels once, but solid hits were made by Matt Tholander, Nick Christakos, Ryan Thistle and Cottrell.

Four punts were exchanged until AHS drove 74 yards in just six plays for its final touchdown.

Daniels swept the left side for five yards, Guibord had three- and six-yard gains, and a key block by Guibord sprung McCue on a 17-yard run.

A late hit as McCue was bumped out of bounds cost Billerica 15 more yards. Shepard escapes

Middle guard Christakos dropped

Guibord for a four-yard loss, but then Shepard stutter-stepped through the pack and cut to the right sideline on his 34-yard TD run.

It was Shepard's sixth touchdown of the season (36 points), and Henry's PAT kick made it 17-0 with 5:29 to play.

The Indians then threatened the shutout by taking 17 plays to move from their own 20 to the AHS two.

Flynn hit Mike Mastrullo with passes of 24 and three yards, Ryan Thistle with a pair of five-yard tosses, Shane Graham with an eight-yard pass and a one-yarder, and John Barbarossa with 10 and five-yard aeriels.

Flynn also ran three times for 13 yards, and Andover was whistled for pass interference.

But the big defensive plays by Ryan Kelly, Bob Dalton, Dan Waitkevitch and Todd Allard kept the shutout streak alive.

The Golden Warriors used ball control most of the night to throttle Billerica, running off 56 plays to just 34 for the Indians prior to the visitors final 17-play march.

But Chelmsford also beat a well-regarded Boston College High team, 15-6, and edged Central Catholic 6-0 although the Red Raiders were at the Lions' one foot line when the game ended.

Haverhill was a penalty-filled 26-14 tug-of-war, Dracut a sloppy 21-0 victory, and Wilmington fell 31-0 last weekend.

The Chelmsford offense features one of Alan Guibord's chief rivals for the label of best back in the MVC, senior Paul Gillette having rushed for over 1,000 yards last fall and added close to 600 this year. Gillette also has 66 points.

Quarterback Sean Ruhmann is mobile and a dangerous runner, fullback Jeff McEnaney blocks well and picks up the tough inside yardage, and Jason Harris provides CHS with a breakaway burner.

Harris has been bothered by an ankle sprain in recent weeks, however, and his status won't be known until just before kickoff time.

Placekicker Veth, although he missed three extra points last week, is one of the best around. Last year he boomed a school record 47-yard field goal against Andover, this year he has four three-pointers including the eventual game-winners against Lowell and Methuen, and for his four-year career Veth has nine field goals and close to 50 PATs.

Defensively Chelmsford has been consistently excellent, with the top players including linebackers Casey

200 for Collins

A sidelight to the contest will be Dick Collins shooting for his 200th career victory, something Caito achieved last year.

Collins has done it all at Andover in 33 years, while Caito has coached at Holliston (two Super Bowls), in Coco, Florida, in New Jersey and at Chelmsford (two Super Bowls) over the past 30 years.

Both men are from the Providence, R.I. area originally and have a healthy respect for one another.

Caito used Hall-of-Famer Collins as an honorary assistant coach when the Lions qualified for the Super Bowl and defeated Gloucester in 1988.

Both coaches have played Catholic Memorial in the Bowl and lost.

This year's league champ, however, will play a team from either the Bay State, Middlesex or Dual County League in a new playoff set-up.

Regardless of who wins tomorrow night, the title won't be assured as Andover still has Central Catholic and Chelmsford plays Billerica on Thanksgiving.

"I love Tom like a brother," noted Collins, who then added with a smile that Caito will be a stranger for a few hours tomorrow night.

"I hate to play him," said Caito. "But what are you going to do?

"It should be a great game, and we've got 'em coming to The Den (the Lions' den)," laughed Caito.

"By the way, I hope Dick has as much luck going for his 200th as I did," added Caito.

It took Chelmsford three tries to get Caito No. 200 last year, the Lions losing twice before finally nailing down the historic victory.

'I hate to play him, but what are you going to do? By the way, I hope Dick has as much luck going for his 200th as I did.'

Frosh gridgers defeat Wilmington

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High freshman football team, following the varsity's lead, remained undefeated and stretched its four-year win streak to 28 straight games following a pair of shutout victories last week.

Coach Ken Pellerin and Bill Hart's 1991 frosh crew blanked Wilmington 14-0 in a game rescheduled because of tropical storm Grace, and then whitewashed Billerica 23-0 three days later at the Marshall Middle School field.

The sweep enabled Andover to improve to 6-0-0 this season.

Four of the victories have been shutouts, the first-string defensive team is unscored upon this year, and overall the Andover frosh have a huge 117-14 scoring edge on the opposition.

The eight-game season wraps up against the two potentially toughest opponents.

Andover, once again in a mirror image of the varsity situation, will host the likewise perfect Chelmsford freshmen tomorrow afternoon at Lovely Field (3:30 p.m. kickoff).

Chelmsford is 6-0-0 and has been pounding opponents by scores similar to those chalked up by Andover.

The season finale is set for next Friday, Nov. 22, against the Central Catholic freshmen who are 6-1-1. That game is also tentatively listed for Lovely Field.

"I guess if the (winning) streak is ever going to end it could happen in one of these last two games," said Coach Pellerin. "Hopefully it will be warm so we can throw the ball. I think we have an advantage in that aspect of the game.

"Our guys are really looking forward to the Chelmsford game in particular," added Pellerin. "It will be a terrific challenge."

Quarterback-safety Eric Thompson continues to lead the freshman attack with four touchdowns, 30 total points and seven TD passes. Alex Marshall has caught three touchdown passes and has 22 points, Mike Dalton has 16 points and Scott Sullivan 12 with two scoring receptions.

Andover, 14-0

The Warriors scored both their touchdowns in the second quarter, and the defense put a vice-lock on the Wilmington offense at the Wildcats' Alumni Field.

Mike Dalton notched the only points necessary with his first touchdown of the season, a two-yard run early in the second period. The score remained 6-0 when the pass for the extra points fell incomplete.

Late in the half QB Eric Thompson and wide receiver Alex Marshall hooked up on a 40-yard pass-and-run touchdown play. Thompson rushed the extras and that was it for the afternoon.

Andover had two other potential TD drives short-circuited by fumbles.

The first threat was set up by Dan Evans's 80-yard run on a trap play, as he raced from the Warriors' 17 yard line to the Wilmington three before being brought down. Andover fumbled on the next formation.

A 63-yard pass play from Thompson to Brian Marshall also brought the ball in close on a second occasion, but once again a loose ball resulted in a squandered opportunity.

Andover, 23-0

The Warriors scored single touchdowns in the first, second and fourth quarters, piled up 227 yards total offense, and saw the shutout preserved by a gallant goalline stand from the reserves late in the Billerica game.

Mike Dalton once again got things rolling with a four-yard touchdown run, and Thompson tossed a two-point conversion pass to Alex Marshall for a quick 8-0 cushion.

The locals doubled the lead to 16-0 at halftime when Thompson pitched a 40-yard scoring aerial to Scott Sullivan. Thompson was running in the extras when he fumbled, but Steve Meunch was there to cover the football and collect the two points.

In the fourth period Thompson escaped on a 60-yard touchdown run, and Nate Roberts pulled a Paul Allard by splitting the uprights with the conversion kick.

The goalline stand came after Billerica had moved for a first down at the one yard line.

The Andover defense killed Indians' drives with three interceptions by Matt Perreault, Brian Marshall and Bob Ellis. Quarterback sacks were contributed by Pat Harding and Paul DeFranco.

Mike Murnane leaves reluctantly after three competitive seasons, including last year when his own son Mike and Sean Darwin sparked the Warriors to a 6-0-0 start, 10-6-4 regular season record and 10-7-4 mark including the tournament game.

His three year record at AHS was 21-33-7.

Murnane, 36, is a graduate of Andover High where he played football and hockey and captained the 1972-73 hockey team which is still the most successful in the school's history. The Warriors went 12-4-4 overall and reached the State Division 2 semifinals before losing to Wayland 4-2 at Boston Garden.

He graduated from and played three years of hockey under Coach Bill Riley at the University of Lowell (now University of Massachusetts at Lowell), former NCAA Division 2 titlists and now a member of Hockey East.

Murnane was assistant to Peter Grogan for one year at Andover High (1981), and spent five years at St. John's Prep as varsity assistant to Frank Salvucci. The Eagles won two State Division 1 titles and boasted current Boston Bruin Bobby Carpenter during his tenure.

He and his wife Marcia, who live on Alderbrook Road, have two children.

Mike, 19, is currently a freshman at Northern Essex Community College in Haverhill while daughter Colleen, 17, is a junior at Andover High and an All-Star member of the highly-successful girls' varsity soccer team.

Murnane is employed by Raytheon, Co.

"Right now my business responsibilities are through the ceiling," he stated. "Last summer it became apparent to me I wouldn't be able to devote a fair amount of time to the hockey team, so I let Jim (Hurley) know of my intentions to resign.

"It's not something I wanted to do, but I know it was the correct move.

"Right now my future hockey plans are on hold, but in the years to come I would perhaps be interested in returning in some capacity.

"I left knowing the program is in good shape and headed in the right direction. We (he and Scott Seero are close friends and former classmates) accomplished what we wanted over the three years, culminating in the tournament last winter.

"Actually I hate to walk away at this point because I think hockey at Andover High is only going to get better. But I feel good about what we did.

"They've hired a good man in Bill Cullen, and I'll be following the team as closely as possible."

Annual Volleyball Challenge dates set

The third annual Nicholas Marcotte Corporate Volleyball Challenge will be held Monday, Dec. 9, at Cedardale Athletic Club in Haverhill.

This benefit is for recreational and social teams only. Team entry fee is $40. Registration is at 5:30 p.m. with the tourney to start at 6. For more information, call Margie Galanos, or Alice Chamberlin at the Cedardale Athletic Club.

Girls' cross country posts best season in its history

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High girls' cross country team highlighted the best season in its harrier history by placing fifth in the Eastern Mass. Division 2 (Class B) Championship Meet last weekend at Franklin Park in Boston.

That performance extended the girls' campaign one more week, as the Lady Warriors qualified for the prestigious All-State Meet this Saturday at Franklin Park (12 noon).

The Andover boys, meanwhile, wrapped up a successful year by placing 14th among 35 schools in their division of the EMass. Division 2 Championships.

"We're thrilled with the fact the girls were able to qualify for the All-State Meet for the first time," said Coach Leo Lafond. "They've done consistently well all year, and in the Division 2 Meet every girl had a good day.

"We talked about this (All-State Meet) as a goal before the season started," continued Lafond. "I discussed it at length with the captains, and we all thought we had a chance to qualify.

"The team has stayed healthy, which is important, and the best thing of all is our top four runners are back next year."

The top five teams in each division of last Saturday's Class Championships, along with selected individuals not on those teams, advanced to this weekend's All-State Meet where they will be joined by the best runners from Central and Western Massachusetts.

Andover girls

The Lady Warriors fifth place finish follows a 6-4-0 dual meet season and fourth place in the Northern Area Meet.

Andover had 187 points last Saturday, with Lincoln-Sudbury edging Tewksbury for the Division 2 team title.

Junior Ellen Sullivan led the way for AHS, placing 11th in a field of more than 200 runners to earn one of 15 medals passed out to the top finishers.

The individual winner of the 3.1 mile race was Maggie Kessler of Dennis-Yarmouth who covered the course in 18:59. Sullivan was clocked in 20:19.

Also scoring for Andover were sophomore Amanda Grasso (29th in 21:01), Amanda Holmes (34th in 21:13), junior Heather Holmander (51st in 21:47) and senior Tri-Captain Heather McNemar (62nd in 22:04).

Other girls running well for the locals were senior Tri-Captains Jen Ashlock (91st in 22:36) and Stephanie Carroll (101st in 23:00).

Andover boys

The Golden Warriors, who had three underclassmen among their top five, finished with 315 points en route to 14th place.

Dennis-Yarmouth was the EMass. Division 2 boys titlist with 107 points, and Jamey Bianchi of Natick the individual victor in 15:49 for the 3.1 miles.

Junior Erik Dahlstrand was the first AHS runner, 53rd in a group of more than 200, as he crossed in 17:11.

Senior Ryan Morgan placed 56th in 17:17, junior Brian Twomey 87th in 17:43, senior Co-Captain Jeremy Roux 92nd in 17:45, and Nate Mullett 127th in 18:19 to complete the top five scorers.

Also competing for Andover were Kevin Sharkey, 147th in 18:50, and sophomore Max Dawson 179th in 20:11.

The Andover boys also finished the dual meet campaign with a 6-4-0 record.

AHS volleyball team's season fades to black

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High girls' volleyball team perhaps had too much time off.

It had been almost two weeks since the Lady Warriors' triumphant upset of Dracut to cap the Merrimack Valley Conference season, and more than a week since AHS had barely broken a sweat to dispose of final regular-season non-league foe Bishop Fenwick.

The momentum had died and the memories were starting to fade by the time Andover opened Eastern Mass. Division 1 North Sectional Tournament play against Lawrence High.

The Lancers had been a dangerous team all season, including two previous matches against Andover when the Lady Warriors pulled out hard-fought 2-1 decisions.

When AHS played Dracut it won because of a nearly flawless performance.

The tables were turned in the EMass. opener, as Lawrence served well and threw up a strong defense to sweep the locals out of the tourney 16-14, 15-11 and 15-13.

The team that two weeks earlier had looked like a potential State title challenger was whisked out of the picture just that fast.

All three games were hard-fought, but when it came down to crunch time the Lancers were poised and the Lady Warriors made too many mistakes.

Andover squandered late leads of 14-12 (one point from victory) in the opening game and 11-10 in the second contest, and couldn't come through with the clutch points after battling to a 13-13 tie in the final game.

Lawrence was subsequently ousted from the tourney by Billerica, and the Indians lost to Dracut in the North Sectional title match.

Coach Art Iworsley and George Sullivan's Andover crew finished the year with a 16-5 overall record, placing second in the Merrimack Valley Conference Large School Division for the fourth straight time.

The Lady Warriors are 30-12 over the last two seasons and 61-23 during the past four campaigns.

AHS will graduate a lot of talent in Co-Captains Meghan Mueller and Lea Conserva, Cara Conserva, Stephanie Kupa, Alexis Campbell, Lee Hendricks and Stephanie Crane.

Next year's solid nucleus of returning players includes All-Conference choice Kerry Hagerty, Julie Doherty and Carrie Green.

Other players who saw occasional varsity time, and sparked the junior varsity to a another excellent season, include Sarah Schmuhl, Johanna Moynihan, Erinne Sullivan, Sarah Tully, Julie Gedi-man, Melissa Minot, Holly Wright and Lisa Perdigao.

Swimmers compete in sectional championships

By Rick Harrison

A number of outstanding Andover High girls' swim team members will travel to Regis College in Weston this weekend to compete in the annual Eastern Mass. North Sectional Championships.

Each of the participants qualified for this meet by posting specific times or, in the case of the one-meter diving, points during regular season duals.

Among the qualifiers and their events are Jill Ippolito (100 freestyle), Michelle McCarthy (100 freestyle, 200 freestyle, 500 freestyle, 100 breast-stroke, 200 IM), freshman Tracie Grant (200 freestyle, 100 butterfly, 500 freestyle, 100 backstroke, 200 IM), Chrissie DerAnanian (200 freestyle, 200 IM) and Ronit Shteiyyer (100 breaststroke).

Andover will be allowed four divers and they will be chosen from among qualifiers Kasie Kearins (school recordholder for points), Tania Pierce, Sarah Faraci, Melissa McNamara, Amanda Schaaake, Anne Milmoie, Jill Ippolito and Deidra DeAngelis.

The Lady Warriors will also enter several relay teams in the 200 free, 400 free and 200 medley races.

Those who qualify with strong performance this weekend will continue to the season-ending All-State Meet next weekend at Northeastern University.

Tryouts to be held for youth basketball teams

The St. Robert's youth basketball traveling teams for 6th, 7th and 8th grade boys will hold tryouts this Saturday, Nov. 16 at the West Middle School and Tuesday, Nov. 19 at Andover High.

On Saturday 6th grade candidates should report to West Middle from 12 noon to 1:30 p.m., 7th grade hopefuls from 1:30-3 p.m. and 8th graders from 3-4:30 p.m.

On Tuesday at Andover High 6th graders will try out at 6 p.m., 7th graders at 7:15 p.m. and 8th graders at 8:30 p.m.

All boys in those three grades are eligible to participate.

The program is in its eighth consecutive season, and last year the starting five on the Andover High boys' varsity team at the beginning of the year (before injuries) was the same starting five on the 6th grade team the year the St. Robert's program began.

The three St. Robert's teams will play between 30-40 games each this winter, with the season beginning in December and continuing through March.

The teams compete in several different leagues, including the North Shore Suburban League based in Wakefield with teams from 42 different towns and cities in eastern Massachusetts. Other leagues are the Merrimack Valley and Lawrence Boys' Club.

The St. Robert's teams will also participate in several area tournaments, including the annual Pepsi Challenge and tournies at Merrimack and Salem State Colleges.

The Andover teams have enjoyed tremendous success through the years, winning a high percentage of their games.

Anyone with questions or requiring more information can call program director Joe Iarrobino at 474-0523.

YOUTH SOCCER

Under 16 Division

Wilmington 2 - Andover Breakers 1

As a gesture of good sportsmanship, Wilmington played 10 players to a short-handed Andover team. Wilmington's left forward and left halfback combined on a well-executed corner kick play to score at the 17-minute mark. At the 18-minute mark in the second half, right forward Deborah Barry scored a goal into the far corner after being sent in alone on a lead pass by left forward Joan Sunderland. Wilmington headed in a crossing pass from a scramble in front of the goal with only seven minutes remaining in the game for the 2-1 win. Goalie Amy Baker made several fine saves to keep her team close. Left fullback Jessica Banos, sweeper Nicole Brooks, left halfback Kathryn Plass and right fullback Deborah Vallee played extremely well.

Andover Breakers 6 - Malden Cosmos 0

Under 14 Division

Blazers 1 - Gloucester 0

The Blazers finished the season undefeated in league play with a 7-0-1 record after a tough 1-0 win over Gloucester. Beth Lee made the play of the game when she came out of goal to stop a breakaway and keep the game scoreless. Meg Giuliano scored the only goal on a long shot from the stopper position. Lauren Martin, Meghan McDougall and Colleen Reid were solid defensively while Incl Erdem, Katy Chabot and Amy Hayner played well in midfield. Missy Famiglietti, Sasha Nelken, Jenny Prudden and Molly O'Connell kept continuous pressure on the Gloucester goalie. The Blazers finished with six shutouts, allowing only three goals while scoring 29 in Essex County play. Erin Collins led the team in scoring with six goals and eight assists.

Booster of the Week: Meghan Pauley, Erica Clausen and Beth Lee.

Andover Hurricanes 2 - Triton 1

The Hurricanes scored first when Josh Hoerner sent a perfect pass to Gordon Wade, whose shot deflected off a Triton player past the goalie. Goalie Andy Barron made several key saves to keep Triton from scoring in the first half. Andover scored on a penalty shot by Peter Ellis. Goalie Gordon Wade made a tremendous save on a breakaway with time running out to preserve the 2-1 victory. The Hurricanes finish their first season with a record of five wins, two losses and one tie.

BOW: Yaniv Rock, Dan Minkkineen and Matt Auffero.

Swampscott 4 - Andover Blast 2

Attention story writers

The Townsmen is grateful for the stories about sporting events many Andover residents write for the sports section.

However, many sports stories are sent to the newspaper without a name and phone number, which the paper needs in case there is a question.

Also, many sports stories arrive without the sport ever being mentioned. The group's real name should be mentioned early in the story.

The police log is on pages 10 and 11.

DOWN THE YEARS

100 years ago, November 1891

Miss C.F.C. Higbee is spending a few weeks in No. Reading.

Mrs. Robert Duncan returned Thursday from her trip to Kansas City.

Mr. Antoine Saunders has returned from a week's visit to Paterson, N.J.

Mrs. Robinson of Marion is visiting her daughter Miss Annie at the home of Mrs. Thwig on Elm street.

The school committee held their monthly meeting Tuesday evening, and it was decided that the Frye Village intermediate be given to Miss Helen Barnett who has been substituting in place of Miss Smith.

75 years ago, November 1916

Miss Isabel Shattuck, of Chestnut street spent the week-end in Malden.

Miss Beatrice Lamond of New Bedford visited friends in town the past few days.

Roy Lindsay of Buffalo, New York, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Lindsay of Summer street.

William Shaw, at the Lowell Hospital, after an X-ray examination and discovery of the knitting of the broken bones in his arm, has been promised an exchange from splints to plaster and perhaps a return to the Vale in time to vote on election day.

The annual meeting of the Andover Historical Society will be held in the vestry of the South Church, next Monday evening at 7:45 o'clock. Judge George H. Poor will address the meeting and the public is cordially invited.

50 years ago, November 1941

Practically everyone knows that our high school was originally called the Punchard Free School, named for a man named Punchard. But what was his first name, and what else did he do?

The answer to the first question is, Benjamin Hanover Punchard. He was an industrious sort of industrialist, a son-in-law of Abraham Marland, and a partner with him in the Marland Mill.

Andover children will undoubtedly be happy to know that he left school at the age of ten, and prospered in spite of it. His first employment was as copyist and clerk in a West India store in Boston.

25 years ago, November 1966

Plans to control water pollution in the Merrimack are at a standstill. No progress has been made from a month ago when it appeared plans for a cooperative approach to control pollution along the Merrimack were shelved, because officials of the four communities negotiating were mired in disagreement over how to distribute board representation in a district set up.

A study team from Northeastern University will recommend in a week or two that Andover staff its school department with three assistant superintendents before the fall term next year and that it redistribute responsibilities to build a stronger chain of command. The redesigned organization will eliminate the dual responsibilities of some Andover administrators and improve communication between secondary and elementary levels.

10 years ago, November 1981

Gov. Edward King has announced the five-year appointment of Francis A. McNulty as the state representative to the Andover Housing Authority.

West Parish plans ham-bean supper

This restaurant, conveniently located on the Lawrence-North Andover line, offers an extensive menu that serves the customer from breakfast through dinner, with appropriate snacks for in-between-times. The food will delight the pasta and meat lover as well as seafood aficionados. The breakfast menu lists eggs of any style, omelettes, pancakes, French toast, Belgian waffles, eggs benedict, eggs Blackstone and hash. They offer fish to please every taste, including cajun style. Seafood may be baked, broiled or fried in 100 percent pure vegetable shortening, to suit the customer's wishes. The menu includes an exceptional choice of side orders, appetizers, salads and daily special. All food is cooked to order and all items on the menu are available for take-out.

October's issue of Boston Magazine featured both the restaurant and the flowers and produce at Riverside as best bargains. Adjacent to the restaurant is a produce market that features fresh produce, preserved and fresh flower arrangements (roses are currently $8.99 a dozen), seasonal arrangements, "post card picture quality" holiday wreaths and hand-picked trees, baskets, fresh honey, homemade pies and fresh pressed cider.

Riverside at the Den earned this honor from Boston Magazine although it has been under new management only since last May. The staff, Owner Deborah Millman, Manager Cal Carciore, Produce Manager Dan Cronin and award-winning Chef Brian Bogus, is dedicated to the highest quality at the lowest possible prices. They also own the Seafood Outlet across from Friendly's on Route 114, which is open 364 days a year (telephone: 687-0090). They offer the lowest lobster prices in the Merrimack Valley. Brian is available for party needs, including preparing party platters for home and office parties.

Riverside at the Den is located on the corner of Route 114 and Waverly Road. Senior citizen discounts of 15 percent are offered on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Ample parking is available. It is open seven days a week. For faster service, call ahead (683-0014) or Fax (683-0181) the order for either takeout or eat-in service.

Amputees to speak in this area

In 1984 Dennis Oehler was involved in an automobile accident that resulted in the amputation of his right leg below the knee. Two years later he began to compete in running races and in 1988 traveled to Seoul, Korea, for the Paralympics.

His time of 11.73 seconds for the 100-meter sprint, a mere 1.8 seconds slower than Olympic gold medalist Carl Lewis, earned him a gold medal.

Todd Schaffhauser, like Ted Kennedy Jr., lost his leg above the knee to bone cancer in 1984. In Seoul, Korea, Todd won the 100-meter "above the knee" gold medal. His next goal is to break his world record in the 1992 Paralympics in Barcelona, Spain, next summer.

These two inspirational young men will talk about their "experiences as athletes" at a community amputee support group meeting at Northeast Rehabilitation Hospital in Salem, N.H., at noon Thursday, Nov. 21.

Amputees, their families and the public are invited to attend.

Contact Ann Clark, director of the amputee program, at (603) 893-2900, Ext. 556, for additional information.

Herb Society meets Monday

The Herb Society of Andover will meet Monday, Nov. 18, in the community room of Frye Circle, off North Main Street, at 9:30 a.m.

There will be a workshop on making boxweed wreaths. Please car-pool from Demoulas in Shawsheen Plaza.

Owner John Clifford
Clifford Jewelers

Clifford Jewelers is pleased to announce the opening of their new store at Newman's Plaza in Salem, N.H. The Salem store will offer the same fine service that customers enjoy at Clifford's North Andover location, including repair and custom shop. Most repairs are performed while the customer waits; jewelry repairs are not sent out. They specialize in appraisals, which are also done while you wait (items do not have to be left at the store). The full retail store remains in North Andover.

One of the outstanding features of Clifford Jewelers is the unique custom work that is provided by owner John Clifford. You may view one-of-a-kind pieces he has created or make an appointment to design your own. Many rings, bracelets, pendants and earrings are exclusively created for the store by him and are available for your particular taste. He is also skilled at repairing heirloom jewelry. Customers may bring in used gold (broken chains, ring settings, etc.) and John will design, at considerable savings, a jewelry piece that will be wearable. This preserves the sentimental value, since the same gold is used. Ninety-five percent of all rings in the store are made by John Clifford. All other items offered for sale must meet the same standards of quality.

In addition to a wide selection of earrings, Clifford Jewelers carries gold and stone jewelry, sterling silver, pearls and children's jewelry.

They maintain a year round "wish list" where one may register favorite items in the store to facilitate gift-giving. All major credit cards are accepted, as well as in-store credit. Free gift wrapping service is available.

Manager Jean Foley is very knowledgeable in the jewelry field and is available to assist the customer in the selection of personal items or gifts.

Clifford Jewelers North Andover store is located at Messina's Plaza, 109 Main Street. They are open Monday through Saturday Telephone: (508) 682-4653. The Salem location is 450 South Broadway (Route 28) at Newman's Plaza. Telephone: (603) 894-5755. Rosemary C. Bernal

SPORTS

Bantam A's post losses

The Andover Bantam A hockey team lost consecutive games for the first time this season. The losses included a 4-2 contest with the Danvers Falcons and a 4-3 loss to Reading.

Danvers 4 - Andover 2

In an important game for both teams, Andover came out on the short end of a 4-2 score in a District II "play-down" game at the Peabody Rink. Danvers scored first half-way through the opening period on a power play opportunity. Within two minutes, the Falcons upped the score to 2-0, despite some outstanding goaltending by the Peter Afarian.

The Andover Bantams battled their way back into the game when Ryan Moynihan picked up a rebound of a Chris Cullen shot and put it over the fallen goalie. However, Danvers got the pivotal goal of the game with just 10 seconds remaining in the second period for a 3-1 advantage. They then made it 4-1 before Chris Cullen scored on a rebound of a Ryan Moynihan shot. Mike Dalton assisted on both goals. With three minutes left, Andover created some great chances to score, but rang a few shots off the post and came up just short.

Reading 4 - Andover 3

The Reading Rockets had two first-period goals and scored again halfway through the middle period for a 3-0 advantage. Ryan Moynihan got the Blue and Gold started with a long, dipping slap shot that eluded the Rocket netminder. He was assisted by Scott Munroe. Later in the second period, Peter Volpe got Andover to within a goal when he converted from a scramble in front of the Reading net. Moynihan and Dana DiFiore created the opportunity for Volpe with some hard work in the Reading zone. Early in the third period, the Warriors were able to tie the score. Volpe and Mike Dalton created sustained pressure in the offensive end, then Jeff Pothier picked up the loose puck and shot it into the far, top corner for the tying goal.

However, with just 3:59 left in the game, Reading scored on a long slap shot that was set up on a face-off for the go-ahead and eventual game-winning goal.

Andover's record is now 13-4 on the season as they prepare to face-off against Haverhill and Methuen this week.

SENIOR CITIZENS

Here's another chance for a flu shot

By Mary A. Byrne

The Andover Health Department has scheduled an additional influenza immunization clinic for those persons who were not able to get to the clinic in October.

The clinic will be held at the Senior Center Tuesday, Nov. 19, from 1 to 3 p.m. Flu shots are free. Medicare eligible recipients must provide their Medicare number if they have one.

Pneumonia immunization will also be available at this clinic. There will be a $5 charge, which is Medicare refundable. An appointment is necessary for the pneumonia shot. Call 470-3800, Ext. 255, for an appointment.

The next food distribution will be held Monday, Nov. 18, at 10 a.m. There will be a craft table at the time.

We'll kick off the holiday season Thursday, Nov. 21, with our annual Thanksgiving party. Chet Harnden will be here and a complete turkey dinner will be served. Ticket cost is $4.

I have been asked by the Sanborn School students and faculty to extend to our senior population an invitation to join them for their annual Harvest Festival. This event will be held at Sanborn School Thursday, Nov. 21, at 9:30 a.m. This is the school's gift to the Andover community at Thanksgiving. I have attended the festival myself several times and find it to be a delightful experience. Call the Senior Center at 470-3830 and let us know if you plan to attend.

The Senior Center will be closed Nov. 28 in observance of Thanksgiving.

Recycle

DO YOU HAVE an item or items that you no longer need, but that would be useful to someone else, something you'd be willing to give away if someone would come get it? For instance: boxes, storm windows, a child's bicycle, cardboard boxes, an old set of dishes.

For only $4.75 for the first 20 words and 10 cents each additional word, you can list your recyclable item in the Townsman's newest classified section: RECYCLE.

"We loved Bartlett's Reach so much...we bought two!"

Len and Elaine Conley with their daughter Cindy.

"After looking at a lot of different properties, my wife and I both agreed that Bartlett's Reach was the best in its price range for overall quality and value. In fact, we loved it so much...we bought one of the loft designs. When our daughter Cindy decided to buy a new home for herself, she was so impressed with the place...she bought a townhouse!

I guess you might say Bartlett's Reach brought our family closer together!"

Visit our Open House this weekend, and you'll fall in love with Bartlett's Reach...just like the Conley's did.

house in the neighborhood that is not owner occupied, according to neighbors.

"I don't think any of us on High Vale know anyone (there). But we do know the mailman," she said. "We're very upset. He was a very, very, very kind person. He was a very clean-cut person, sort of a very gentle person to me. I spoke to him a number of times about dogs on his route."

Mark Engelberg, of 14 High Vale Lane, who works at 195 Andover St., called Mr. Bradner "easy going."

"He's our mailman, so I'd see him on a daily basis," Mr. Engelberg said. "I'm very shocked. I can't really see him getting into an argument with somebody."

"He just left our house. He just dropped the mail off," Mr. Engelberg said.

Diane D'Angelo, a teen-ager from 26 High Vale Lane, said she talked with Mr. Bradner at about 12:30 or 1 p.m.

"He asked why I was home. No school," she said.

Linda Fitzpatrick, of 203 Andover St., had also just seen the mailman.

"He was just at our house at noon-time," she said. "I'm home so I see him every day."

Jan Zink, of 28 High Vale Lane, knew Mr. Bradner.

"I knew him to speak to him. He had played basketball with my kids at Merrimack College," Ms. Zink said.

"He looks like Dee Brown," Ms. Fitzpatrick's son, Nicholas, said, comparing Mr. Bradner to a player for the Boston Celtics.

Scott Zink, 15, played basketball with Mr. Bradner in the gym at Merrimack.

"He was a really nice guy. He was really good," Scott Zink said.

"He was really fast," Mrs. Fitzpatrick added.

Mr. Bradner's mail truck sat parked on the side of Andover Street, about 150 yards from where he was shot, for about three hours while investigators collected evidence at the scene.

Police had closed down Andover Street from Woburn Street to River Street.

Susan Foster, Mr. Engelberg's wife, said she had an appointment with a woman who called to cancel because they couldn't get to her house because of the shooting.

A gentleman who lived at the end of High Vale Lane but who did not want his name in the paper, said he had lived there for 37 years and had never seen anything like the murder.

"Never. It's very quiet here," the man said.

At about 3:10, the father or father-in-law of the victim arrived on the scene.

He spoke briefly with police and left a few minutes later without going in to see the body.

Lynn Barash, of 3 High Vale Lane, said Mr. Bradner was her family's mail carrier. She spoke with him on many occasions to work out a plan to keep the family dog inside during mail delivery hours.

"He was afraid of my dog. We made a deal that I'd keep the dog inside and if the dog was out he wouldn't deliver the mail that day," she said.

On the day of the murder, Mrs. Barash was rushing to pick her son up from SHED day care and get home in time to be there for her 9-year-old daughter who walks from South Elementary School on Woburn Street.

When she got to the middle of Andover Street a policeman told her she couldn't go through. She told him she had a 9-year-old alone waiting at home. And he told her to drive around and access her street from the other direction.

"The policeman said he couldn't tell me why I couldn't go by in front of little children," she said.

The school had put many of the Ballardvale area walkers on a bus and dropped each one off near their homes. Mrs. Barash's daughter arrived home about 45 minutes after she did, escorted by a police officer.

Employees from Digital Consulting Inc., at 204 Andover St., came up "out of curiosity" when they saw the crowd and all the police cars.

It was just about dark by the time the chemists and investigators finished their job and Mr. Bradner's body was finally carried from the house.

Police waited for a search warrant before going through Mr. Nelson's second-floor apartment. Residents of the Mansion House were allowed back to their homes later that night.

9 eggs

1/2 cups milk

1 1/2 cups half and half

4 teaspoons sugar

3/4 teaspoon salt

"This is a new recipe that was given to me from a friend. After you try it I am sure it will be one of your favorite recipes, as it is mine," said Ms. Buonopane.

French Canadian pork pies from Canada

Submitted by Claire Francis, 24 Boston Road.

"This recipe has been in our family for many years. My mother made it for the family on all the special days throughout the year for us to enjoy for breakfast or supper as long as I can remember. I have kept the tradition by making it for my own family through the years," Ms. Francis said.

Three or four pounds of pork butt cut in cubes like beef stew, three medium onions diced, salt and pepper to taste, add two cups of water in sauce pan and cook over low heat for 1 1/2 hours. Remove from heat and cool until lukewarm.

"For the pie crust you can use either pie mix or Bisquick, mix whatever you prefer, but I always used the Bisquick myself because my family likes it that way. After you make the crust put the meat in, add onions, salt and pepper to taste. Put crust on top."

Bake in 425 degree oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until brown.

Pork chops and spaghetti

Submitted by George Marquis, 65 Central St.

"During a visit to New York City, my family and I dined at Mama Leone's Restaurant. I asked the waiter if he could recommend something delicious and different. He suggested the pork chops and spaghetti. After trying it, I thought it was wonderful. I noted all of the ingredients which I thought were in the dish. I experimented with the recipe, made the necessary adjustments, and achieved what I think is perfection. It is very tasty, and easy to make."

- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 4 tablespoons margarine
- 3 tablespoons chopped garlic
- 1 tablespoon seasoned salt
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 6 center cut pork chops
- 1 tablespoon rosemary
- 1 28 oz. can whole tomatoes
- * 1/2 cup chopped parsley

- 1 lb. spaghetti
- 1/3 cup grated Parmesan
- 4 tablespoons margarine

Trim fat from pork chops. Heat a dutch oven. Melt four tablespoons margarine in dutch oven. Add three tablespoons olive oil and allow to heat over medium high flame. Add garlic and the pork chops two at a time and brown on both sides. Sprinkle with rosemary, seasoned salt and black pepper. Add the can of tomatoes with liquid, cutting the tomatoes into quarters. Add parsley. Reduce heat to a simmer. Cook, covered for 20 minutes. Remove from heat. Allow to cool. Refrigerate overnight, allowing the flavors to blend.

On the following day, heat pork chops and sauce over medium heat. In the meantime, cook the spaghetti according to package directions. Drain and rinse spaghetti. Return to pan and add four tablespoons of margarine and grated Parmesan. Toss well until margarine is melted. Arrange spaghetti on dishes. Spoon pork chops and sauce over spaghetti. Serve immediately. Serves six.

Cranberry pie

Submitted by Rita Richardson, 23 Greenwood Road.

She found this recipe many years ago in Good Housekeeping magazine.

"I believe it was called 'Gertrude August's Cranberry Pie.' I have made this pie every year, adapting and adding my own touches. I always reserve three cups of fresh cranberries in my freezer and also make this pie in the summer. It's easy, it's good and celebrates one of our true New England products."

- 3 cups fresh or frozen whole cranberries
- 3/4 cup chopped pecans
- 1/2 cup white sugar
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1 large egg

- 1/2 cup flour
 - 1/3 cup melted margarine or butter
- Mix cranberries, nuts and 1/2 cup blended sugars. Pour into greased fluted quiche pan. Beat egg with remaining 1/4 cup sugar; add flour and mix until no lumps remain. Spread over berry mixture. Bake at 325 degrees for 45 minutes.

Serve with slightly sweetened whipped cream dusted with cinnamon or with vanilla or egg nog ice cream over the warm pie.
